New York Times Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 — More than half of those on the FBI's list of most wanted fugitives are young left-wing radicals.

Although officially known as the list of 10 most wanted fugitives, it now numbers a record 16, including nine radicals.

The 16 include four women, all but one of them linked to violent revolutionary activities.

Until six months ago, this well-known rogues' gallery listed primarily hardened criminals. Then, in May, a White Panther party member, Lawrence R. Plamondon, accused of bombing a Central Intelligence Agency office in Ann Arbor, Mich., was put on the list. Other radicals continued to be placed on the list, until it reached its current makeup.

The radicals listed include:

Hoover Charge of Priest-Led Kidnap, Bomb Plot Denied

NEW YORK (UPI) — A man claiming to be a Roman Catholic priest and member of the East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives said Friday the antiwar group has never contemplated "the possibility of kidnapping or bombing" as alleged by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The man, who said he was the Rev. Peter D. Ford, also said that his 11-member organization "has never claimed the leadership of the Berrigan brothers" as stated by Hoover in testimony to a U.S. Senate subcommittee. Hoover in written testimony to an appropriations subcommittee, said members of the East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives planned to abduct foreign diplomats and top-echelon government officials, including possibly a White House aide, and detain them until the U.S. agreed to halt the bombing in Southeast Asia and free "all political prisoners."

The FBI director said that the Revs. Philip and Daniel Berrigan were the "principal leaders" of the group which he said also included other Roman Catholic priests and nuns, teachers, students and former students who have opposed the Vietnam conflict by violence.

Hoover made his charges while asking Congress for an additional $14 million to hire 1,000 more FBI agents and 702 clerks.

Responding to Hoover's assertions, the Rev. Ford said the conspiracy — which he said includes four priests, two nuns and five "resisters" — was responsible for "destroying draft files and disrupting Selective Service offices in Philadelphia and the General Electric offices in Washington, D.C., on Feb. 7 and 8, 1970."

He said, however, "the East Coast conspiracy has not now or in the past entertained the possibility of kidnapping or bombing."

bullets, rockets, bombs — was used in the air strikes. Daniel Z. Henkin, a Defense Department spokesman, said the strikes were made to suppress anti-aircraft fire and to prevent movement of North Vietnamese troops toward Son Tay while the U.S. raiders were there.

The Pentagon issued its statement after Army Sgt. Corris Sworn, 23, Pompano Beach, Fla., revealed that Nixon told him of the air strikes as they sat together for Thanksgiving Day dinner at the White House.

Sworn, one of 106 wounded veterans to eat dinner with the First Family, said Nixon told him an air raid was staged on a nearby military installation to keep enemy soldiers pinned down while the prison camp raid was going on.

Hanoi radio claimed after the prison camp raid and bombing below the 19th Parallel that U.S. planes had bombed near Hanoi, killing POWs in another camp near Son Tay.

AN ATTORNEY for the Berrigan brothers, Father William C. Cunningham, S. J., issued a statement for himself and attorney William M. Kunstler, who also has represented the Berrigans.

Cunningham called Hoover's remarks "scurrilous and self-serving" and said to reply to the specific details "would be to lend it a dignity that it cannot command on its own strength." He said if Hoover had the evidence he claimed, he should prosecute the Berrigans.

"Instead he has seen fit, in order to try to stamper a Senate subcommittee into supplementing his agency's annual appropriation to provide for 1,000 additional FBI agents, to fabricate the far-fetched spy story and, at the same time, stigmatize men like former Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who have publicly criticized him," Cunningham said.

The FBI chief said he also was concerned about "the ominous possibility" that Black Panther Party members "may seek to ape Arab tactics" and hijack an airliner, holding its passengers hostage for the release of Panther Chairman Bobby Seale. Seale is on trial in New Haven, Conn., in connection with the kidnapping and murder of a former Panther member.

Military Personnel Aboard

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — A DC-8 jetliner carrying 229 persons, most of them military personnel bound for Vietnam, crashed and exploded during takeoff Friday night, killing between 50 and 100 persons.

A spokesman said flames prevented an immediate search for bodies.

Anchorage hospitals reported receiving 75 persons suffering primarily from burns, with more coming in.

The four-engine jet, chartered by the military, lifted off from Anchorage International Airport after dark in a freezing drizzle. Witnesses said it crashed, exploded twice and sent flames hundreds of feet into the air.

THEY SAID 15 to 20 persons were seen running from the burning wreckage.

Scores of emergency vehicles rushed to the scene, and the Alaska Air Command reported that rescue crews had called for "body bags."

A temporary morgue was set up at Kulis Air Force Base, a small Air National Guard installation on the edge of the airport.

The plane left a 500-yard trail of fuel, airport spokesmen said, and parts of two motors and the wings were widely scattered.

The Defense Department in Washington confirmed that the plane, owned by Capitol International Airways, had been chartered by the military and was bound for Cam Ranh Bay, South Vietnam.

AIRPORT spokesmen said the plane carried 219 passengers and 10 crew members.

It began its flight from McChord Air Force Base in Tacoma, Wash., where a spokesman said the passengers were believed to be Army and Air Force personnel. It was to have stopped in Yakota, Japan, en route to Vietnam.

M. H. Rowe, executive vice president of Capitol, said in Nashville that the plane had stopped in Anchorage for a crew change and refueling.

He said he had been told most of the crew survived. Rowe said the airline makes 15 to 20 such flights in Vietnam each month.

Nixon Leaks Raid Story to GI Guest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon Friday confirmed President Nixon's Thanksgiving dinner remark that U.S. planes staged air strikes near Hanoi last weekend. It also declined to rule out Hanoi charges that U.S. bombs were dropped in the area.

The Defense Department also disclosed that "about a dozen" Shrike missiles were fired by U.S. planes to knock out North Vietnamese "early warning and missile guidance radars." A White House spokesman had said earlier Friday that "less than five" were fired.

The North Vietnam government has accused the U.S. of killing 49 civilians by bombs that fell north of the 19th Parallel. The U.S. government has contended that all of its activity north of the parallel was connected with the unsuccessful raid to free American prisoners of war from the Son Tay prison camp 20 miles west of Hanoi.

The Pentagon did not say what type of ordnance — bullets, rockets, bombs — was used in the air strikes. Daniel Z. Henkin, a Defense Department spokesman, said the strikes were made to suppress anti-aircraft fire and to prevent movement of North Vietnamese troops toward Son Tay while the U.S. raiders were there.

The Pentagon issued its statement after Army Sgt. Corris Sworn, 23, Pompano Beach, Fla., revealed that Nixon told him of the air strikes as they sat together for Thanksgiving Day dinner at the White House.

4 JUMP — 50 WANTED TO Overboard for Freedom

Combined News Services

Fifty passengers would have jumped overboard from an East German cruise ship — instead of just four — if there had been a larger American vessel off the Florida coast to pick them up, the four escapees said Friday.

The four men — a machinist and three medical researchers — were granted temporary asylum by U.S. immigration authorities after leaping off the cruiser-freighter Volker Freundschaft off Key West, Florida.

All four were picked up by a small boat, chartered by the machinist's American brother, which sailed up to the East German ship after months of careful planning.

The refugees said they jumped off the Cuba-bound ship to flee East Germany and become "free men."

THE THREE medical men had no inkling of the machinist's plans, but made quick decisions to join him in escape when they saw him swimming toward his brother's vessel.

The four men are Karl H. Bley, 24, the machinist; Manfred Kupfer, 37, of Leipzig, a neurologist at the Brain Research Institute at the University of Leipzig; his brother Heinrich Kupfer, 33, of Zwickau, a pathologist at the Zwickau Pathological Institute, and Pieter Rost, 37, also of the Pathological Institute.

The German ship is the former Swedish vessel Stockholm — the ship which collided with the Italian Andrea Doria off Nantucket July 25, 1956, sending the Italian luxury liner to the bottom with a loss of 51 lives and touching off a dramatic rescue operation that saved hundreds of other passengers.

Bley's brother, Eric Bley, 36, of Villa Park, Ill., planned the escape for the machinist without counting on being joined by the others. If he had been in a larger boat, he said, "There would have been 50 jumping overboard."

The elder Bley told a news conference that he set up the escape through a correspondence code with his brother, who speaks no English but who Eric said wanted desperately to flee East Germany

"because he wants to be a free man."

"I feel great. This is the greatest thing that has happened for him and for me," said the elder brother.

BLEY, a bachelor, left two other brothers and his mother in East Germany. Manfred Kupfer said his wife "is a physician, too," in the East. Heinrich Kupfer left behind a wife and two children, and Rost said his wife and son were still behind the Iron Curtain.

Eric had been flying with Keys charter pilot

Ken Agnew for four days searching for the 825-foot vessel he knew his brother had boarded with permission from Communist authorities to take a pleasure cruise to Cuba. After missing the ship Thanksgiving Day, when he expected it, he spotted it from shore early Friday, rushed out in the plane to be sure and reported seeing "a big liner with full lights on."

He raced down the Florida Keys by car, fearful the ship would pass the rendezvous point before he could charter a small boat.

Accompanied by Capt. Boh Lowe, a Keys fishing guide, Bley chartered a 22-foot outboard at Key West and headed for American Shoals, about 10 miles offshore, with Agnew guiding them in his plane.

Karl was waiting on the deck of the freighter, a lifejacket underneath his coat. Eric and Lowe made one pass close to the big ship, then roared their boat alongside it.

Agnew zoomed low across the fantail of the ship — the signal for Karl to jump. He bolted overboard.

That was supposed to be it. Only Karl was expected by the rescuers but three other men followed him overboard.

MANFRED Kupfer said later that he, his brother

Chance Wind May Blow Rain Away From Area

Light rain began falling throughout the Long Beach area late Friday night and the weatherman said it may become heavier as today progresses.

The weatherman left himself an out, however, pointing to the fact that a prevailing wind might blow the entire storm through Long Beach before dropping any appreciable amount of precipitation.

Still, the forecaster said, the rain in Long Beach and surrounding communities should be "moderate to heavy" throughout today with scattered showers predicted for Sunday.

IF IT COMES, the rain could have a major impact on the All-Western Band Review scheduled for today in Long Beach (see story, Page B-1) and for the USC-Notre Dame football game in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

For the gamblers, the official guess at rain was fixed at 60 per cent for Friday night and Saturday morning, 70 per cent through today and tonight with the shower forecast on Sunday pegged at 50 per cent.

TO GO WITH the rain, the weatherman said, the Long Beach area can also look for the previously-mentioned winds, with some gusting as high as 30 mph. If the wind doesn't blow the rain away, it could combine with it for some fairly miserable overall weather conditions, particularly for drivers or shoppers.

Elsewhere in the Southland, the same storm will drop the snow level in the San Bernardino mountains to about 5,000 feet, produce hazardous conditions on highways in the interior and desert regions and create heavy seas, with 15 to 25 knot winds.

HICKEL'S TOP AIDES FIRED—FAST

WASHINGTON — Six top aides of former Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel were fired Friday, two days after President Nixon dismissed Hickel in a face-to-face White House meeting.

"There was no reason given at all," Jose Holbert, the department's deputy director of information, said of his dismissal. "We were given only an hour's notice."

Interior Department sources said that Frederic V. Malek, a White House special assistant, and William Rogers, deputy undersecretary of the Interior, summoned the six aides and told them they were fired at the end of the day.

When asked to comment, an Administration spokesman said: "From the White House standpoint, it is normal that when a Cabinet secretary leaves, there will be other changes within his department."

Hickel was fired because, the White House said, there was a lack of "mutual confidence" between him and Nixon.

The other dismissed aides were Dr. Leslie Glasgow, assistant secretary for Fish, Wildlife and Parks; Charles Meacham, U.S. commissioner for Fish and Wildlife; Tom Holley, director of congressional liaison; Pat Ryan, Hickel's personal executive assistant; and Dr. Donald Dunlop, Hickel's personal science adviser.

Glasgow was a professor at Louisiana State University and commissioner of Louisiana Fish and Wildlife. Meacham also had the title of deputy assistant Secretary for Fish, Wildlife and Parks.

Pick a Country

Q. Does an American-born child of Canadian or Mexican parents have dual citizenship? If this child votes in a United States election, does this eliminate the dual citizenship? J.C., Long Beach.

A. "The U.S. Department of Immigration and Naturalization does recognize that a child born in the United States of Mexican or Canadian parents could consider himself a citizen of two countries, but our government considers him an American citizen," said a spokesman for the department. The Canadian government recognizes an American-born child as a Canadian citizen only if the child's father has not become a U.S. citizen and the child is registered as a citizen with the Canadian Consul General's office. If the child eventually votes in a U.S. election, he would not necessarily lose his Canadian citizenship, but a spokesman for the consul general's office said that the Canadian citizenship laws may be changed in the future. The Mexican government considers an American-born child of Mexican parents to be a Mexican citizen until he is 18 years old and then he must choose which country he wants to be a citizen of, according to a

Pontiff Forgives Would-Be Assassin

Combined News Services

MANILA — Manila police tightened security measures today to prevent any more attempts on the life of Pope Paul VI. They were under sharp criticism for laxity at the airport when a man tried to stab the pontiff. Pope Paul, 73, showing no signs of his ordeal or the fatigue of his long journey to Asia, went serenely about his program Friday. He celebrated Mass in Manila Cathedral, received foreign diplomats and met with President Ferdinand Marcos, credited with helping to ward off the assassin. Pope Paul told Marcos he forgave his assailant and he blessed the crucifix Mendoza had used to conceal a foot-long knife.

$900,000 in Art Stolen

MONTEPELLIER — Art thieves stole 19 works of masters valued at $900,000 from the Fabre Museum during the night, French police said Friday. The robbery was one of two major art thefts in the world within a 24-hour period. Police in the western Japanese city of Kurashiki said thieves stole five paintings valued at $503,000 from the Ohara Museum. Among the paintings taken from the museum here were works of Degas, Matisse and Courbet. The five stolen from the museum in Japan included a Van Gogh.

Khan Defends Relief Work

DACCA — President Yahya Khan Friday dismissed criticism of government relief work following the disastrous typhoon and tidal wave in East Pakistan, saying "we went flat out to get succor to the devastated area." He appealed to the world community to help feed 2 million survivors for the next year, and said his government — with the help of the world bank — has launched a $173 million relief program. Yahya held a press conference at which he defended his actions against criticism by political opponents.

Big Arab Federation Planned

CAIRO — Syria joined with Egypt, Libya and Sudan Friday in a project to set up a massive Arab federation. Egypt and Syria also agreed in Cairo talks to step up their military cooperation. The communique said Syria and Egypt had agreed to act to strengthen the Arabs in their battle against Israel.

Phnom Penh Attack Feared

PHNOM PENH — Communist troops were reported moving toward Phnom Penh today from four directions. The sound of artillery was clearly audible in the capital, and leaflets were found threatening an attack on Phnom Penh itself, sources said. Officers at Kompong Speu, southwest of the capital, Batheay to the north, Prek Prasap to the northeast, and residents of Takeo Province to the south reported Communist movements in the direction of Phnom Penh.

Argentine Terrorist Attacks

BUENOS AIRES — Terrorists armed with guns and chains invaded the homes of three U.S. military men and stole arms, uniforms and personal documents Friday. The wives of two of the men who were on their way to work at the U.S. embassy when the simultaneous attacks occurred — were knocked to the floor and chained until the extremists made good their escape. Argentine federal police threw up roadblocks and searched car trunks to no avail.

Four-Car Turnpike Crash Kills Nine

DOWNINGTOWN — Nine persons, including six children, were killed Friday night in a four-vehicle rush hour pile-up on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near the Downingtown interchange. "They were all over the place," said state police public information officer Gene Visconti, who joined troopers and rescue workers at the scene. He said weather conditions were clear at the time of the accident.

Visconti said bodies and wreckage were scattered across the highway's westbound lanes. A door and a fender, shorn from one car, were found in the opposite lane.

He said that eight of the dead were among 10 occupants of one car. They included the driver, his wife, and six small children, ranging in age from one month to ten years. Two girls from the car, about five and seven years old, were admitted in serious condition to Chester County Hospital in West Chester. None were identified immediately.

Bomb Scare on Luxury Liner

NEW YORK — The passenger liner Santa Rosa, on a Caribbean cruise, returned to New York Harbor Friday because an anonymous caller told police he heard two people discussing a bomb allegedly put aboard the ship. Two police launches, three Coast Guard cutters and a fireboat met the liner when it anchored near Coney Island. City police found no bomb on board and the liner was allowed to continue its voyage.

359 'Drugs' Held Ineffective

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration made public Friday a list of 359 prescription drugs and nonprescription products it has declared ineffective. A spokesman said the compilation was prepared as an aid for other governmental agencies such as the Defense Department that buy quantities of drugs. Evaluations were made by a National Academy of Sciences panel and FDA doctors. The FDA said the 359 lack evidence of effectiveness or are combinations of drugs that are no more effective than any one ingredient.

Romania became the 62nd country to accept the treaty.

Former Interior Secretary Walter Hickel, who vowed to answer all questions about his sudden dismissal by President Nixon at a press conference next week, Friday abruptly called off that meeting. A spokesman for Hickel told Donald Larrabee, chairman of the National Press Club's board of governors, that Hickel was out of town and would not be able to return to Washington in time for the session with reporters.

Just 24 hours earlier, Josef Holbert, Hickel's press secretary, had asked Larrabee to set up the meeting. Holbert was one of six top Interior officials dismissed Friday in the wake of Hickel's firing.

Hickel was understood to be in Texas but his exact whereabouts were unknown.

The former Alaska governor was fired Wednesday in a brief meeting with President Nixon at the White House. Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, R-Md., currently chairman of the Republican National Committee, has been nominated as Hickel's successor.

Soviet Nobel Prize Winner Alexander Solzhenitsyn called at the Swedish embassy Friday and said he would not go to Stockholm to receive the current prize for literature, diplomatic sources in Moscow said. Under the rules of the game, Wildenstein can obtain an export license within three months unless some consortium intercedes to match the price.

UNWED CAPTAIN

Capt. Susan Struck, a 26-year-old unwed nurse whom the Air Force wants to discharge on grounds of motherhood, is expecting the birth of her baby today. The Air Force tried to give the 26-year-old nurse an honorable discharge. That effort has been blocked by a court case which will be ruled upon by a three-judge panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco. Capt. Struck became pregnant in Cam Ranh, Vietnam. Her condition was discovered by an Air Force doctor in her seventh month. She promptly was sent back to the U.S. for processing out of the military under a regulation that says a female officer who is pregnant will be discharged.

The Louisville, Ky., native says the rule is unfair and wants to continue her career. She already has arranged for her child to be adopted by an Air Force couple.

Miss Struck, advised of a suggestion in the local press that she name the infant "Air Force One," she said that might indicate she would have only one child. "I might have three or four. That would be nearly a squadron... then I'd have to buy each one of them a plane."

4-1 Odds Your Car is Faulty

Associated Press

1,900 to 3,500 cars a month and by the end of September 1,156,577 autos had been inspected — about one tenth of the state's registered cars, Bowen said.

"We don't stop everyone. If a motorist says 'Officer, I'm late for a doctor's appointment' we won't hold him up. These numbers are the cars that have been completely inspected," Bowen said.

The cars are checked throughout — suspension, lighting, horn turn signals, smog device, brakes, windshield wipers, tires, exhaust system and so on. Among the most frequent faults found are with headlights, usually incorrectly aligned, Bowen said. Next in line are lighting equipment in general, including burned out brake lights or turn signal bulbs.

Cars are pulled aside and members of the five man team take from five to 10 minutes looking them over. The team consists of either five patrolmen or four officers and a civilian mechanic who is an expert on smog control devices.

When something is found wrong patrolmen fill out mechanical warning which the motorist is asked to sign, Bowen explained. The driver then has two weeks to get the problem fixed and take the car to a highway patrol station for certification. Headlight, brake and smog device repairs must be done by an authorized repair station.

If the motorist doesn't comply within two weeks a followup is mailed out and failure to act then could result in an arrest warrant and a fine.

"But there aren't many cent comply the first time warrants," Bowen said.

"Probably 80 to 95 per cent with the followup." "We try to use as much discretion as possible with warrants," Bowen said. "You don't think we'd issue a warrant for windshield wipers in June, do you?" he asked.

The number of faults found in cars varies with the area being checked, Bowen said.

"There aren't too many things found wrong in Beverly Hills where you see a lot of new Cadillacs but out in the suburbs where there are lots of five year old clunkers things are a little different," he said.

GOVERNOR SETS MAJOR NEWS TALK

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Ronald Reagan's office said Friday he would make a "major" announcement Monday.

Ed Gray, Reagan's assistant press secretary said the announcement did not pertain to rumors of a shakeup in the state's Social Welfare Department.

Reagan scheduled the 11 a.m. meeting with newsmen in the auditorium of the building housing the State Resources Agency, instead of the customary news conference room in the Capitol.

Report Says Tidal Lab Sites Needed

California's colleges and universities control only 6 of 47 natural coastal sites they need to develop marine science programs, a scientist's study disclosed Friday.

"Despite the urging of many commissions, agencies and institutions during the past five years, no positive action has been taken to designate tidepools for higher education use," said the report by marine scientist Andres B. Rechin.

The study was conducted for the Coordinating Council for Higher Education, an advisory body to the governor, University of California Board of Regents and state college trustees.

Rechin predicted the state's marine science work force will increase about 20 per cent each year but the demand for college graduates in this field will not be met because of inadequate coastal sites for outdoor laboratories.

Sixteen of the 47 natural and near pristine areas along the coast are privately owned and others are controlled by government agencies, the report said.

Attorneys in Torture Case Picked

Superior Court in Los Angeles appointed lawyers Friday to defend three black activists against charges that they tortured two young women.

Judge George M. Dell named private attorneys to represent Ron Karenga, 29, Louis Smith, 19, and Luz Maria Tamayo, 23.

A fourth defendant, Fred Glover, 19, will be represented by the public defender.

The county will pay for the defense of all four.

Karenga, head of the militant group U.S. and the others are accused of conspiracy and felonious assault. Police quoted Karenga as saying he believed the women he is accused of torturing last May were trying to poison him.

Longson, Freed in Slaying of Stepfather, Gets Rifles

By VINT MADER Staff Writer

Eighteen-year-old Bruce Longson, acquitted by a Superior Court jury in the rifle slaying of his stepfather Friday, began retrieving his weapon collection that had been held by Long Beach police and the court.

Longson, of 6129 Gaviota Ave., got back from homicide Sgt. Doug Bostard an old .22-caliber Remington bolt action rifle that his father, Donald Longson, carried on the night in 1967 when he was killed in a shootout with Robert Bealy Mitchell.

Bostard also returned to him at police headquarters a .22-caliber Crosman air-powered pellet rifle and a quantity of .22- and .25-caliber shells and some pellets.

Longson, accompanied by Bostard, then went to the Long Beach courthouse to see Deputy District Attorney David Feldman, whose efforts to convict the youth of first-degree murder in the June 8 shooting of Mitchell, 40, the jury rejected Tuesday after 97 minutes of deliberation.

Longson was seeking return of the 7mm Mauser rifle, a cartridge belt and ammunition that were entered in evidence in the 11-day trial before Judge Thomas F. McCarry.

Two rounds from that clip-fed bolt action weapon killed Mitchell when he broke in the living room door of the home where he lived with the elder Longson's widow, Elizabeth, also 40, whom he married after a coroner's jury ruled justifiable his killing of Longson in a shoot-out over her affections.

Mitchell was separated from her at the time he broke into the house after having telephoned that he was coming to pick up belongings.

Mitchell was separated from her at the time he broke into the house after having telephoned that he was coming to pick up belongings.

Feldman said he told the youth to have his attorney, Burton H. Barnett, of Norwalk, file a motion with Judge McCarry for return of what he wants out of the property in evidence.

It includes the belt full of ammunition, except one pouch from which Bruce testified he quickly pulled the clip and loaded the rifle after plaster began to break away from around the locked front door under Mitchell's blows.

There are also the slugs and casings of two rounds he fired at Mitchell, striking the stepfather once when that man was in the living room and then when he was in the kitchen. Two other slugs and empty casings are from test rounds fired by police criminalist Martin Klein from the same clip, and the fifth live round remains in that clip.

Feldman said the district attorney's office would not oppose a motion to return Longson's property, since the jury finding means the rifle was not used in any crime and there is no legal ground to oppose the return.

ACCORD REACHED IN MEAT STRIKE

Negotiators in a 5½-week butchers strike against the Southern California wholesale meat industry reached tentative agreement Friday night, an industry spokesman announced.

Details of a new contract between Butchers Local 563 and the Food Employers Council, representing the 19 struck Vernon meat packing companies, were not disclosed. The package will be voted on this week-end by union members.

Butchers struck Oct. 21 asking wage and fringe benefit increases of $1.76 an hour over a three year period. Other unions honored picket lines but the companies continued operations by importing meat.

The Vernon plants supply about 70 per cent of the meat for local supermarkets.

Psychiatric Test Sought in Slaying

Marva Louise Whitlow, 20, convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the stabbing death of another woman, was remanded Friday to the psychiatric department of Superior Court for pre-sentencing diagnostic studies.

Judge Roy J. Brown followed a probation officer's recommendation that Miss Whitlow be sent to the state corrections department for 90 days for the study.

The woman was charged with the murder of Patsie Felter, 22, of 2173 California Ave. The crime took place last June on the sidewalk in the 1000 block of E. Anaheim Street.

After Miss Whitlow, of 1118 Gardenia Ave., testified the other woman drew the knife in an argument, Judge Brown reduced the charge in a trial without a jury Nov. 5.

DAN'L BOONE FIRES 4TH POSEIDON

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — A multiwarhead Poseidon missile was shot from a submerged submarine to an Atlantic Ocean target area late Friday on the rocket's 27th test flight since it was first fired two years ago.

The 34-foot missile, carrying a dummy payload, was launched from the USS Daniel Boone about 30 miles east of the cape. It was the Daniel Boone's fourth Poseidon shot and the first for its alternate "blue crew."

The Poseidon is scheduled to become operational early next year aboard the USS James Madison.

Ex-Forger, Aides Caught on Safe Job

OAKLAND — Police announced Friday the arrest at gunpoint of Joseph Memoli, a figure in what was once the nation's biggest counterfeiting case, along with three companions at the staked out scene of a safe cracking.

Police released dramatic pictures taken in the office of the SFO Helicopter Airlines Thursday night.

Sgt. James Wickersham said 15 officers with shotguns rose from hiding places and leveled their weapons as the first tentative taps were made on the dial of a two-ton safe. None of the arrested men was armed.

The company manager said the safe contained only a trifling sum.

Memoli, 46, operator of a restaurant in fashionable Jack London Square, was booked along with Guy Smith, 47, Ernest R. Richards, 44, and Robert Benjamin, 35, on investigation of burglary, conspiracy and automobile theft. Bail was set at $100,000 each.

The Secret Service said Memoli was sentenced in 1963 to four years in federal prison for participation in a counterfeiting operation that produced nearly $4 million in bogus money on a press at Alameda State College, now California State at Hayward.

Seven other men got up to 15 years.

Once first, it still ranks as the third largest counterfeiting case in Secret Service history.

Holiday Death Toll Soars

Fatalities on the nation's highways climbed to 323 on the second night of the four-day Thanksgiving holidays Friday. The dead included a 33-year-old Long Beach woman. In one of the worst accidents of the year, nine persons were killed when four vehicles collided in a chain reaction crash on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Downingtown.

Two persons were killed in a one-car accident on the San Bernardino Freeway in the East Los Angeles area, bringing the number of Los Angeles county traffic fatalities to eight.

The Long Beach woman, 33-year-old Susanne Bartos of 3220 Delta Ave., was fatally injured when her auto swerved off the Santa Ana Freeway near the Arlesia Freeway interchange and struck a guard rail.

She died at Martin Luther Hospital, Anaheim, at 11:44 a.m., more than four hours after the accident.

PENALTY SEEN FOR LAWYER LIE

The state Supreme Court is considering possible disciplinary action against Grant B. Cooper, Los Angeles lawyer, based on a State Bar report alleging that he committed a crime involving moral turpitude.

The State Bar report, filed with the court this week, stemmed from Cooper's admission that he lied to a federal judge about his knowledge of stolen grand jury transcripts in the Friars Club card cheating case.

Cooper and attorney William Marshall Morgan each were fined $1,000 for contempt of court by U.S.

District Court Judge Albert Lee Stephens Jr. in connection with the same matter. However, Stephens said he treated the offense as a misdemeanor not involving moral turpitude.

The State Supreme Court has the last word on disciplining attorneys. The State Bar's 15 man disciplinary board disagreed with Stephens' decision on moral turpitude, although it could not agree on a penalty for Cooper. The board cleared Morgan.

Cooper was one of the lawyers for Sirhan Sirhan, convicted of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

British Jail 2 Yanks on LSD Charge

Two Americans were jailed in London, Eng. for two years each Friday on offenses involving LSD tablets valued at $29,000 found in a surfboard by British customs officers.

They are James Michael McLellan, 25, described as a surfer, who said his home was in California and that he had worked in Hawaii for a firm of surfboard manufacturers, and Kenneth Charles Eklund, 24, a carpenter from Santa Ana.

Both had pleaded innocent to fraudulent evasion of an import ban regarding 4,035 tablets, each containing 385 milligrams of LSD, and to conspiring to obtain possession of the drug with intent to evade the ban.

Prosecutor John Baker told the court the two men went to London's Heathrow Airport to collect the surfboard. The tablets were found inside when it was taken apart by customs officers.

NEW CENSUS FIGURES DUE MONDAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau will release Monday the final official residence count for the states and the nation and how many seats each state will be entitled to in the House of Representatives.

Several states, including California, Texas, Florida, Arizona and Colorado, are expected to gain House seats and others, including New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Tennessee and Iowa, will have reduced House delegations, preliminary studies indicate.

New Words

Q. On Channel 13 Oct. 18, there was a special with John Hartford, Joni Mitchell and Pete Seeger. Joni Mitchell composed the song "Both Sides Now" and on this special, Seeger sang a new verse to it which he composed. It began, "Daughter, daughter." I would appreciate it if you would help me find the words to this verse. K.K., Wilmington.

A. Seeger wrote three new verses especially for Miss Mitchell. We got the words from a spokesman representing her Los Angeles manager. They are: "Daughter, daughter, don't you know, you're not the first to feel just so? But let me say before I go, it's worth it anyway. Someday we may all be surprised. We'll wake and open up our eyes and then we will realize the whole world feels this way. We've all been living upside down and turned around with love unbound until we turn and face the sun. Yes, all of us, everyone."

Plastered

Q. We recently had a home addition built and some of the plaster and stucco splattered onto the aluminum frames of the new windows and sliding doors. Can ACTION LINE find out how to remove the plaster without damaging the finish on the aluminum? D.L.S., Long Beach.

A. ACTION LINE checked with building contractors, paint stores and an aluminum company, and we were unable to learn of a completely successful method for removing the plaster without marring the finish of the aluminum. Even if you do remove the material, the lime in the plaster probably will have eaten through the anodizing and left marks on the aluminum. One building contractor suggested that you loosen the dried plaster by applying a penetrating lubricant such as W.D. 40, available in most hardware stores. Another contractor suggested that you might use a wooden stick to scrape off the plaster. Metal tools will scratch the aluminum. Once you have removed the plaster, use an aluminum cleaner such as El Pico, which may restore some of the finish. However, it is almost impossible to completely remove the marks left by the plaster.

Suitable Case

Q. When we lived in Minnesota, we could always buy weiners with natural casings. I have looked everywhere but can't find any in this area. All the weiners out here seem to be made with synthetic skins. S.L., Long Beach.

A. You can buy sausages with edible casings made from animal parts at Hansa Delicatessen, 133 W. Broadway, Long Beach. The "German style" weiners also are available at Elmer's Fine Foods, 329 Pacific Ave.

SOUND OFF!

Recently our family went down to the Long Beach Court Building to have a municipal judge perform a civil marriage for our daughter and her fiance. The judge changed his mind and told us to come back Saturday and he would perform the ceremony there for $10 or at his home for $20. We were very upset at this so we went to Orange County where we found a judge who performed the wedding for no fee and was very polite and understanding and upset to hear how the judge in Long Beach treated us. I think a county official who makes as much as a judge could show better courtesy. Anon., Long Beach.

FOUR JUMPED OVERBOARD

and Rost all had gotten permission to visit medical institutes in Cuba with the idea in mind of finding a chance to escape. The three had, without knowing of the Bleys' plan, spent all night on the deck of the cruiser, watching the lights of Florida and passing ships slide by.

"We were looking for a good possibility," Rost said in broken English. "We saw much ship, but they were very great distance. It wasn't possible to make communications to the ships. But this morning we saw a little ship coming near us."

"We called to one another, 'Manfred,' 'Pieter,' I heard one person jump out of the ship. I saw my companion was in the water. I took a life saver and threw it out and jumped overboard."

Manfred Kupfer was the last of the four to go over. "I waited a lot of seconds," he said. "I have seen Bley and my brother and Pieter Rost jump in the water. I heard the people cry 'man overboard.' I went to the other side of the ship where no people were standing, took off my shoes and overcoat, and jumped over too."

ERIC BLEY, who escaped from East Germany via Berlin in 1955, said that when Communist ships sail near other countries in the North Sea or through the English Channel, the crewmen line the rails to prevent escape attempts. But apparently the defection off the Keys caught the crew by surprise.

After the escape, the Communist ship made a half-turn back toward the men, but resumed its course toward Cuba when it was evident they had been picked up and were being sped away in the small boat.

The older Kupfer brother was asked why he and the other medical men left East Germany. He answered: "It is the system with which we live and the brutality and some things like the occupation of Czechoslovakia. Further, there is no possibility to develop in our profession because we are not Communists."

ERIC explained that Communist Party members get special treatment and none of the four defectors are party members.

Eric and Lowe had planned to make their rescue run from Marathon, but had to race to Key West because the ship came into view unexpectedly.

"We got there just in time," said Lowe. "If we had been five minutes late, the ship would have passed and we wouldn't have been able to catch it."

Eric said his brother told him he would have jumped overboard as they passed the shoals anyway.

Because of the high seas and the crowded boat, Lowe called for Coast Guard assistance on the return trip to Key West. A helicopter escorted the motorboat to harbor.

Chemical Union Threatens Strike

MIDLAND, Mich. (UPI) — The 7,500 members of the Allied and Chemical Workers Union at Dow Chemical Co. announced Friday they will strike on Tuesday if certain demands are not met.

The present contract between the union and company expires next spring, but workers are disputing a section of the contract dealing with seniority and job classification.

Ban Sought on Foreign Sex Films

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign films with explicit sex scenes and only "incidental" social value should not be permitted to enter the country, the Nixon Administration argued Friday.

The fact that a movie exploits "shameful or morbid sexual interests" should qualify it for suppression, Justice Department lawyers said in seeking a ban on the Swedish film "Language of Love."

The appeal described as "unrealistic" the 1966 high court standard that only material "utterly without redeeming social value" can be censored.

"Talk about the standards of the community is not very meaningful when the community is prevented from enforcing any substantial standards by this steady progression to slimmer and slimmer elements of value with more and more explicit sexual depiction."

resort to aircraft hijackings as part of their strategy to get our government to meet their demands," Hoover said.

The FBI's "present burden of work is grossly excessive" without more manpower, he said, citing the new threats to support his case.

Turning to the alleged kidnap plot, Hoover testified: "This group plans to blow up underground electrical conduits and steam pipes serving the Washington, D.C., area in order to disrupt federal government operations."

"The plotters are also concocting a scheme to kidnap a highly placed government official. The name of a White House staff member has been mentioned as a possible victim."

"If successful, the plotters would demand an end to United States bombing operations in Southeast Asia and the release of all political prisoners as ransom. Intensive investigation is being conducted concerning this matter."

The Justice Department circulated warnings of possible here following the kidnappings by French-speaking Canadian secessionists of British trade commissioner James R. Cross and the Quebec provincial labor minister, Pierre Laporte, who was later strangled.

government property and conspiracy" in the bombing of the mathematics center at the University of Wisconsin late last August. They are Leo Frederick Burt, David Sylvan Fine and two brothers, Karleton Lewis Armstrong and Dwight Alan Armstrong. A researcher died in the blast.

Two women — Susan Saxe and Katherine Ann Power — described by the FBI as "reputed members of a radical revolutionary group dedicated to attacking the United States military system and undermining police powers." They are charged with the murder of a Boston policeman after a bank robbery in which they allegedly took part.

Cameron David Bishop, described by the FBI as "a violence-minded college revolutionary who bears the tattoo of a skunk." Reputedly a member of the Students for a Democratic Society, he is charged with the destruction of four power transmission towers in Colorado that supplied power to defense plants.

H. Rap Brown, the black militant leader charged with "inciting to riot and arson." He failed to appear for trial on those charges on May 4 and was put on the most wanted list the same day.

Bernardine Dohrn, referred to in an FBI flyer as "a self-described revolutionary Communist" who is being sought for "unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for mob action, violation of federal anti-riot laws and conspiracy." She was put on the list the day after she failed to appear for trial on charges stemming from a violent confrontation with Chicago police in October, 1969.

OTHERS on the list include John William Clouser, an escapee from a Florida mental hospital accused of interstate car theft; Charles Lee Herron, who is being sought for the murder of a Tennessee policeman; Byron James Rice, accused of murdering a California armored car guard; Warren David Reddock, sought for the murder of an Illinois businessman; Benjamin Hoskins Paddock, an escaped federal prisoner; Taylor Morris Teaford, a convicted rapist who is being sought for the murder of his grandmother, and Marie Dean Arrington, a convicted murderess who escaped from a Florida prison while awaiting execution.

According to an FBI spokesman, the agency monitors cases through its 59 branch offices around the country and chooses replacements and additions for its most wanted list on the basis of which individuals seem to represent the most danger to society.

In its fiscal report issued Oct. 30, the FBI stated that "a rapid escalation in New Left extremism" presented a "distinct danger to our national security." The report went on to specifically condemn the militant Weatherman faction of the SDS, and singled out as a revolutionary training exercise the October, 1969, so-called "days of rage" in Chicago.

AN FBI AGENT, asked whether it might be inferred that politically oriented types were being unfairly included on a list that had traditionally been dominated by hard core criminals, denied that a person's motives for a crime in any way free him from responsibility for his act.

William Kunstler, a well-known lawyer who is a supporter of radical causes, has as clients one former and one current member of the most wanted list. In a telephone interview, he said that the FBI's reason for putting revolutionary types on the list was "to murder them." He added that by describing the radicals as dangerous, the FBI encouraged local officials to "shoot first and ask questions later."

He added that radicals are also put on the list "to stigmatize the movements to which they subscribe."

The 10 most wanted list, now in its 20th year, is primarily used to give the names the maximum possible publicity.

The average length of stay on the list is 132 days. Some fugitives, however, have been captured within hours of being listed, and others have eluded law officers for years. One escaped mental patient has been on the list for over five years.

Panther Charges Dropped

By BILL CRIDER

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — City officials dropped trespassing charges Friday against militants arrested after a month of maneuvers over the occupation of a city-owned apartment by a Black Panther group.

Most of those arrested remained in jail on other charges. Some were taken into custody Wednesday at a road block near the commandeered apartment in a Negro housing project. Others were arrested when police broke into the building early Thanksgiving morning and exchanged shots with those inside.

In all, 31 were arrested. Eight were juveniles and were not charged.

The decision to drop the trespass charges was made in U.S. District Court where Police Supt. Clarence Giarrusso and other officials were called to explain why such charges had been filed in the first place.

JUDGE Frederick J. R. Heebe ordered Giarrusso to court after it was learned Asst. City Attorney Philip Brooks had promised a federal court last week that police would not use a challenged section of the state trespass law in dealing with the apartment in the Desire Street Housing Project.

That section of the law deals with occupancy of someone else's property after having been forbidden to do so.

Black militants, members of the National Committee to Combat Fascism, a recruiting arm of the Black Panthers, took over the building a month ago and refused to leave. A massive show of police force was made last week but police did not try to remove them.

However, a group of blacks and whites left voluntarily Wednesday afternoon and drove away from the building in cars police said were rented for them by actress Jane Fonda. They were arrested a few blocks away at a road block. Most were charged with criminal trespass.

They also were charged with criminal mischief. ABOUT 12 hours later, disguised policemen, who the militants say were pretending to be preachers with financial aid, got in the apartment, exchanged gunfire with the six occupants, and arrested them on charges of criminal trespassing, attempted murder and criminal anarchy. One girl was wounded.

The matter was taken to court Friday by some of those arrested who claimed the courtroom promise by Brooks negated the arrests. They asked for a restraining order against prosecution on grounds the police moved initially under authority of the disputed trespass law.

"Until a court decision has been made," Giarrusso told the court: "I will request that the charges pertaining to 14:633 the trespass section, made on Nov. 25 and 26 be refused by the district attorney's office."

Assistant Dist. Atty. Byron Legendre said charges would be dropped.

GIARRUSSO said he did not know about the promise, which had come in a hearing after 200 police surrounded the two-story building in last week's unsuccessful bid to arrest those inside.

As a result of that hearing, the controversial trespass law was set for a hearing before a three-judge federal panel to rule on its constitutionality.

"I felt that a temporary restraining order had been refused and the constitutionality of that statute had not been decided," said Giarrusso.

"I'm a police officer. I would not violate a court order of any kind," he added.

The Housing Authority of New Orleans had originally asked police to remove the militants from the apartment under the trespass law. They could not legally ask for eviction, since the militants were not legal tenants.

Panthers Hit College That Barred Their Convention

WASHINGTON—Stymied in their attempts to use Howard University facilities, the Black Panther Party changed signals on its Revolutionary People's Constitutional Convention Friday and called for a "general mobilization of the masses for survival."

Exactly what that meant, however, was left up in the air.

"We will hold our . . . convention on liberated territory in Washington D.C.," deputy minister of information "Big Man" told a news conference outside the Panther community center on the edge of Northwest Washington's black ghetto area.

"We call upon the people of the community to liberate Howard University and to make that institution serve the needs of the community," he said.

AMONG the possibilities being considered, he said later, was Meridian Hill Park, a two-block-square terraced garden nearby that community people sometimes refer to as "Malcolm X Park."

At night about 1,000 Panther delegates and young people held a rally at the park, five blocks from the convention's registration center.

The party's call was issued in the most general terms, without a timetable to indicate how long the procedures, once scheduled for two days, might go on.

"The mobilization will last as long as is necessary for us to have our Revolutionary People's Constitutional Convention in a 'liberated community,'" Big Man said.

"Are you saying you are going to liberate Howard?" he was asked.

"I'M NOT saying I'm going to liberate it," Big Man replied. "I'm saying people should liberate it."

"When will it be liberated?"

"When the people are ready for it to be done," he said.

Further instructions, the deputy minister said, would be issued at All Souls Unitarian Church, the convention's registration center. By evening, best guesses put the number of delegates at 1,000 or more, although it was hard to count because participants were strung out along a dozen blocks.

BIG MAN'S news conference was primarily an attack on Howard, one of the nation's most prestigious black colleges and a school that gets more than half of its funds from the federal government.

Howard had originally agreed to accommodate a and if the Panthers agreed two-day convention if details could be worked out, to pay the $7,377 in costs the school said it would incur.

But a Tuesday night deadline set by Howard passed without word from the Panthers, so Howard officials returned a $1,000 down payment check that arrived 24 hours later, and said the school's facilities could not be used.

FBI Nabs Singers in Bank Robbery

By FORD BURKHART

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Three members of a rock 'n' roll group called "the Zodiac" have been charged in the $66,000 bank robbery here last week. FBI agents said Friday.

Singer John Choram Lutz Jr., 21, was charged with robbery and conspiracy late Thursday after he was arrested at his home, the FBI said.

Arrested earlier were Milton S. Bron Jr., 24, charged with robbery and conspiracy, and Terry Lee Brown, 23, held on charges of receiving stolen property and conspiracy, the FBI said.

Agents said they have not recovered the money, taken from the Kline Village Branch of the National Bank and Trust Co. of Central Pennsylvania on Nov. 19.

The woman manager, acting on telephoned and written orders, put the $66,000 in a bank bag and delivered it to a street corner seven blocks away. She said she had received a phone call in advance, advising her to cooperate with the FBI in capturing a bank robber.

While on the phone, she received written instructions delivered by a man, indicating the bank would be blown up if she did not take the money to the appointed location.

The manager relayed the contents of the note to the man on the phone, who assured her FBI agents would follow the man to the street corner and arrest him.

FBI agents labeled the case "a pure case of extortion."

Cause of '42 Club Blaze 'Unknown'

BOSTON (AP) — The fire department has closed its books on the worst night club fire in history, the Coconut Grove blaze of Nov. 28, 1942, in which 491 persons died.

Since that time, one line on the official department documents had been left blank. That was: Cause.

This week, after exhaustive study of all available records on the fire, the blank was filled in: "Cause of fire of unknown origin."

It commonly had been assumed that the tragedy was caused by a bus boy who struck a match while replacing a light bulb in the corner of the Melody Lounge, where the fire started.

"After a careful study of all of the evidence and an analysis of all the facts presented, the department was unable to find the conduct of this boy caused the fire," District Fire Chief John P. Vahey said.

"No evidence of incendiaryism is found. The fire department is unable to determine the original cause or causes of this fire," Vahey wrote in his summary.

Sidewalk Santas Get Sendoff, Start Ho-Ho-Ho for Charity

By SUSAN EVERLY
NEW YORK — A small army of ampie-bellied Santa Clauses hoping to bring Yuletide cheer to the unfortunate was turned loose in Times Square Friday with a final word of advice: "Don't lean on your chimneys and keep your whiskers straight."

The 29 Kris Kringles, wearing snow-white whiskers and bright red suits, went off to take posts as sidewalk Santas on the city's thoroughfares.

They started a month-long campaign of chatting with passers-by and urging them to make donations for the needy. It's all part of the annual fund-raising appeal by the Volunteers of America, a national social welfare organization.

The merry men even went into training for their chores. They have to stand in the cold next to fake chimneys placed on the sidewalks to receive donations and hear youngsters tell them what they want for Christmas. Competing with a background of horn-blowing and the rattle of trucks, the Volunteers' Lt. Col. Walter Nash belated a series of do's and don'ts:

ADMIRER MEETS SANTA'S HELPERS IN TIMES SQUARE
Eddie Simon introduces son, Eddie Jr., to bearded fund raisers.

"Keep your breath clean — avoid eating garlic and onions... don't smoke, eat or drink while on duty... be patient with little children... don't leave your chimney unattended... do not promise children they'll get the gifts they ask for..." The "kickoff" drew a goodly crowd including wide-eyed tots, some adults, and a sprinkling of teen-agers.

Some of the Santas are volunteers. Others, from the organization's rehabilitation center in Manhattan, are paid. Some are naturally rotund; others use a pillow or two to "round out" the portly effect.

One Santa, a volunteer, said, "I do it to help people.

SAIGON (UPI) — Hanoi Radio resumed its annual broadcasts of Christmas messages from American prisoners of war to their families in the United States Friday with one allegedly from Navy Commander Robert James Schweitzer, who likened himself to Ebenezer Scrooge.

Schweitzer, of Lemore, Calif., has been a prisoner of war since January, 1966 when his plane was shot down over North Vietnam, according to the U.S. command in Saigon. His message was addressed to his wife Gwen and children Carl and Ann.

"AS CHRISTMAS approaches, I am much like Ebenezer Scrooge, envisioning Christmases past, Christmases present and Christmases future," Schweitzer said, referring to the central character in Charles Dickens' classic "A Christmas Carol."

"But here the resemblance ends, for my thoughts are happy ones," Schweitzer said.

"Christmas past are warm, nostalgic times of my boyhood with the folks and friends, of our early years together, Gwen, and of our most recent happy Christmases with you boys: pleasing poignant memories.

"Christmas present is about to unfold. Our camp choir is rehearsing. We will have Christmas dinner. You may send me an 11-pound package this year.

"But much more important, I know that you all are safe and that our people are slowly but surely insisting that the meaning of Christ's birth and that of peace on earth, good will toward men be actively pursued, not just talked about.

"That is why Christmases future will be the brightest and happiest of all. We will be together again with our family and friends in a peaceful world. We will have learned to have loved one another as Jesus has taught us. These Christmases will come with time and our concerted effort.

"My love to our family and friends. My deepest love to you. Have a very merry Christmas. Love, Dad."

Solon Seeks Acclaim for Raiders

WASHINGTON — Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., said Friday he would make another attempt to gain Senate approval of a resolution commending the U.S. soldiers who took part in the fruitless POW rescue raid at Son Tay in North Vietnam.

Dole introduced the resolution Wednesday but Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., objected to his request for unanimous consent that it be considered immediately.

Fulbright said more time was needed to study the resolution and added that quick approval might be misunderstood as Senate support for the raid or for the Administration's whole Vietnam policy.

Dole said 34 senators of both parties have co-sponsored the resolution which he said was restricted to the bravery of the men and not the policy.

"Those who refuse to do public honor to the men of that mission — for fear, their own position might be 'misunderstood' — fail to reflect the attitudes of the American people," Dole said in a prepared statement.

Hollywood Studio Damaged in Fire

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — An estimated $50,000 damage was caused by fire to the old KMPC studios Friday. The building was used as a storage area by Republic Records.

A fireman suffered minor injuries while battling the greater alarm blaze in the 75 by 100-foot building.

Turkey Wasn't What Awaited This Soldier

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Army Lt. James King flew home Thanksgiving Day on a holiday pass from Ft. Benning, Ga., and was greeted at the airport Thursday by his wife who was nine months pregnant.

She said she was glad he was not late because she thought it about time she went to the hospital. Two hours later she gave birth to a 7-pound, 11-ounce girl.

Two Appointed to Commissions

Two appointments to Los Angeles County commissions were announced Friday by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn.

Hahn said that Mrs. Helen Young, wife of Norvel Young, president of Pepperdine College, will serve on the board of governors of the Otis Art Institute.

Mrs. Bethel Smith, who formerly served on the Otis Board, was shifted to the County Public Welfare Commission.

Huge White House Christmas Tree Arrives Safely; No Sabotage Attempts

By BROOKS JACKSON

WASHINGTON — The White House Christmas tree, most pro-establishment of yuletide symbols, arrived unscathed Friday after a guarded, twice-derailed train trip halfway across the country. Railroad detectives shadowed the 78-foot Black Hills Spruce on the journey from Rapid City, S.D. It resided Tuesday and Wednesday in the care of the Army on a rail siding in nearby Maryland. District of Columbia police provided a motorcycle escort as the tree was trucked to the Ellipse just south of the executive mansion.

It isn't that trouble was expected. It's just that nobody was taking chances.

"They were afraid that some kook would throw a match or a firebomb on it from an overpass. This represents the institution or the Establishment or something," said C. L. (Paddy) Ingvalson, president of the Keep South Dakota Green Association.

Workmen began immediately to ready the tree for the traditional ceremony Dec. 16, when a switch will be thrown to illuminate thousands of lights festooned from its 15-foot boughs.

Derailments of other cars in eastern Nebraska Nov. 18 and near Pittsburgh Tuesday caused minor delays but no damage. The oversize gondola carrying the tree never left the track.

Ingvalson, who with his wife Margaret accompanied the tree in a 34-ton pickup truck with a camp-or mounted on it, said the derailments were caused by track conditions. "They weren't sabotage or anything," he said.

The 73-year-old tree was cut in the Black Hills National Forest near Nemo, S.D. and trucked 25 miles to Rapid City, where it began its rail journey Nov. 16.

Ingvalson said that after the Christmas holidays the tree would be cut up into souvenirs for the hundreds of South Dakota citizens who contributed to defray the $2,000 expense of transporting it to the White House.

Railroads donated their services and the money went mainly for such items as trucking, handling and Ingvalson's travel expenses, he said.

Mrs. Ingvalson said the Pentagon had turned down a request to fly the tree free by military cargo plane.

Ingvalson, a member of the South Dakota House, planned to begin his return trip immediately to be on hand for a Dec. 3 legislative meeting. A one-term Republican, he was defeated for re-election in a Democratic landslide Nov. 3.

Mrs. Ingvalson said the Pentagon had turned down a request to fly the tree free by military cargo plane.

Ingvalson, a member of the South Dakota House, planned to begin his return trip immediately to be on

"He should have started his migration south long ago if he's afraid of flying too... but you say he arrived yesterday."

Severe Birth Defects in Mice Traced to the Pill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Researchers said Friday a drug found in one popular birth control pill caused severe birth defects in 64 per cent of pregnant mice that were tested. But they cautioned against drawing conclusions about the drug's effect on humans.

The defects included

Control Cancer in Animals

NEW YORK (UPI) — A veterans' hospital cancer researcher has found a means of immunizing Guinea Pigs against one type of cancer, the American Society reported Friday.

The society said Dr. Ludik Gross, chief of cancer research at Bronx Veterans' Hospital, stressed that at present the finding has no application in humans.

Gross said small amounts of infectious leukemia agent were placed under the top layer of Guinea Pigs' skin. In most of the animals, a small skin tumor appeared which eventually went away.

Gross said this left the animal with immunological strength "to withstand vigorous challenges, such as direct injection of leukemia cell extracts containing live viruses underneath the skin, into muscles, and even into the peritoneal cavity." He said sunch injections in normal animals led to death in every case.

The society said Gross' experiments have led the scientist to believe that leukemia is caused by a virus, although proof of this had eluded scientists to date.

malformed brains and skulls, cleft palates and distortions in the development of eyes, ears and sex organs, their report said.

Scientists reported in the scientific journal "Teratology" that the drug, Norethynodrel, used in Enovid, one of the first birth control pills on the market, was found to be the damaging agent.

A spokesman for the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association said that Norethynodrel is found only in Enovid, manufactured by G. D. Searle & Co. The PMA representative refused to comment on the test findings "until we have read the research data."

A Food and Drug Administration spokesman said the federal regulatory agency was aware of the project and that it "found nothing scientifically new or exciting in it."

The National Institute of General Medical Sciences, a division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, financed the research and cautioned in a statement that "no conclusion regarding human exposure and fetal development can be made on the basis of the findings reported here."

THE TESTS were done at Research Triangle Institute near Raleigh, N.C., by scientists led by Drs. Monroe E. Wall and Keith H. Palmer.

They said Norethynodrel broke down into two chemically related products in the mice called metabolites, the same way it breaks down in the human body.

The statement said 300 pregnant mice were tested, some with Norethynodrel and others with pure forms of one or the other of the metabolites.

"Examinations of their litters one day short of the normal 19-day mouse gestation period revealed that up to 64 per cent of the fetuses displayed severe abnormalities," the study showed.

"Our pharmacologists have been thoroughly conversant with the data in the report and have found nothing scientifically new or exciting in it," the FDA spokesman said.

"We have long been aware of fetal abnormalities resulting from the use of certain birth control pills administered in late pregnancies of animals," he said. "Our labeling instructions to physicians strictly provides that the pills not be used in pregnancies."

MRS. LORAIN MILLER COLLINS (L) AND HOSPITAL DEDICATION HELPERS Kevin Goodall, 7; Sherie Ann Christensen, 17; Jerry O'Malley, 14, Spoke at Ceremonies —Staff Photo by CHUCK SUNDQUIST

'A DREAM COME TRUE'

New Earl, Loraine Miller 114-Bed Hospital Opens

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Mrs. Loraine Miller Collins had a dream: a children's hospital for Long Beach. And all of a sudden — at 11 a.m. Friday — the dream came true.

After a 30-minute dedication ceremony, the doors swung open at the main entrance of the new Earl and Loraine Miller Children's Hospital Medical Center.

The ultramodern 114-bed facility was built with a gift of $4,680,000 from Mrs. Collins and her late husband, Earl Burns Miller.

It was her big moment, and she handled it with humility.

Extending her arm, she motioned to a long line of children to enter the hospital.

A FEW MOMENTS earlier, in a short talk, she spoke of dreams, quoting the poet Langston Hughes: "Hold fast to dreams . . . For if dreams die . . . Life is a broken-winged bird . . . That cannot fly."

She told of the waiting for her dream, reminding the audience of more than 1,400 that ground was broken for the children's hospital on Sept. 6, 1968.

"Now, two years, two months and 21 days later — we have the building," Mrs. Collins said.

She termed the new facility "the best planned and constructed building with the most modern equipment" and she noted the importance of the highly trained skill of nurses, physicians and volunteers.

"THESE ARE needed — yes," she said, "but without compassion they would indeed be cold."

The feeling of warmth and the knowledge of love along with the latest scientific inventions and skill will "make our children's hospital great," she said.

Earlier, Kevin Goodall, 7, of Burnett Elementary School, presented a drawing of children to Mrs. Collins and read a short statement.

"She loves children because they love her," he said.

Another speaker, 14-year-old Jerry O'Malley of Herbert Hoover Junior High School, giving the official tribute on behalf of the community's children, asserted: "The most important thing in the world is a child's life and well being."

Midway in his presentation, young O'Malley commented:

"I have a special interest in this hospital. I hope to do my internship here."

He disclosed that his goal is to become a pediatrician.

And he made it clear that he already speaks the language of kids.

The special teenage wing will have its own lounge — a place for kids to "goof around," O'Malley said. The remark drew a burst of laughter from the audience.

Sherie Ann Christensen, 17, of Lakewood High School issued the official welcome to the crowd. She read a telegram from the White House:

"As fellow Californians, Pat and I will be with you in spirit when you dedicate the Earl and Loraine Miller Children's Hospital Medical Center in Long Beach. But more than this as longtime friends our thoughts turn back to our close association; and we are again reminded on this occasion of the inspiration you bring not only to our lives but the lives of all who know you."

"THE NEW CENTER will represent for all who know you and for those who admired Earl, a living monument to a great man and woman whose dedication to the well-being of others earned them the respect and admiration of all their fellow citizens. It will house the same fine civic spirit and generosity which marked his life and give enduring expression to the qualities that have won you our affection and esteem." (signed) Richard Nixon.

The speakers' stand held a "who's who" of community leadership — but the youngsters off to one side stole the show. Groups like the Herbert Hoover Junior High School Band and the Memorial Volunteers. They grooved.

The finale, and it was heavy as the kids would say, featured a ceremonial procession of Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls and the Memorial Volunteers.

Excitement had mounted by this time as the last of the throng, adult spectators, crowded the lobby, heading for the elevators to begin tours of the building.

Over in the corner, virtually unnoticed, stood Mrs. Collins.

She was talking animatedly to a young hospital volunteer.

PARK WILL BE HAVEN FOR HANDICAPPED KIDS

By MOLLY BURRELL
Staff Writer

An intercommunity effort is working a major transformation in eastern Long Beach: Trees and grass have replaced rocks and weeds in a setting destined for full development as an oasis for the handicapped.

Indeed, happiness will be a new park for the 110 youngsters at Intercommunity Exceptional Children's Home, 2666 Grand Ave.

A 3½ acre park site just east of the school is on land owned by the city of Long Beach and administered by the Airport Authority. It is expected to be ready for use by early spring, according to Joseph Rounkles, president of the Eastside Optimist Club, under whose aegis the planning, development and donations are being coordinated.

The 25-member club, helped by contractors in Long Beach and Orange County, aided by volunteers from service clubs in and outside Long Beach, and augmented by church youth groups from Compton and Bellflower, has already converted half the acreage into a park, installed stables for ponies, and fenced a flood control ditch which bisects the site.

Still to come are dog kennels, slides, swings, a picnic area, and possibly a baseball diamond, according to contractor Jim Gallagher, general coordinator of the development plan.

Youngsters from the residential care center for the mentally retarded and multiple-handicapped will reach the park through a tunnel under the San Diego Freeway ramp system.

Prior to the opening in the spring, said Rounkles, "Operation Santa Claus" will be staged Dec. 20 on the finished portion of the park. Santa will debark from a helicopter with gifts for the youngsters — another part of the club's youth group service project for the year.

Applications for the position of drawbridge operator for Los Angeles Harbor, which pays $1,035 per month, will be accepted until Dec. 15 in Room 701 of the Harbor Department's facilities at the Pacific Trade Center in San Pedro, city officials have announced. Three years' experience with heavy equipment is required.

Rain or Shine, 75 Bands Strut Today

Rain or shine, the 30th annual All-Western Band review will go off on schedule today.

But the 75 performing high school bands may do their strutting indoors instead of outdoors if the weatherman's prediction of rain is correct.

Don Gill, director of the massive musical production, said Friday that a contingency plan had been drafted by the organization to shift the review to the Long Beach Arena in the event of rain.

IF SKIES are clear or if only a light drizzle mars the day, the visitors — from throughout most of California — are scheduled to step off at 11:45 a.m., from Falcon Avenue proceeding westward along Ocean Boulevard. In six divisions, the bands will be competing for five awards in each bracket.

Gill said that the Arena cannot logically accommodate the thousands who annually line Ocean Boulevard to watch the high-stepping majorettes, the twirling drum majors, the lines of drill teams and the brightly-uniformed bands. Most of the seating will be reserved for the families and friends who will accompany the visiting bands to Long Beach. Area band fans will be admitted on a limited, first-come, first-served basis.

The rain contingency plan would find the 75 bands and other performers grouping at Long Beach Municipal Auditorium and being taken — through the lobby complex — to the Arena as their place in the predetermined march indicated, Gill said.

"WE ESTIMATE that it will require about five hours to have the review indoors," Gill said. "Naturally, we're hoping the skies will stay clear until we finish."

In addition, Gill said, the rain would deprive the thousands of Long Beach faithful who line the streets each year with the opportunity to hear and see what many regard as the most rewarding high school band competition in the state.

Most of the bands scheduled to perform today have already won major competitions elsewhere.

Touring Car Brings Santa to Tots' Farm

By BILL HOMER
Staff Writer

Reindeer and sleigh? Bah, humbug! Helicopter, or — in a lurch — flashy, futuristic limousine? Pshaw!

These days, Santa travels in elegance, as was evident upon his arrival in Long Beach Friday aboard a chauffeured, antique White touring car.

Also known as Verle Kaiser, who for years was the Christmastime kiddie confessor at Buffums' department store, Santa showed up at about noon at the Downtown Long Beach Associates' holiday headquarters for children and other pint-sized people, Santa's Animal Farm, 242 E. Third St.

To the music of the Long Beach Municipal Band, Santa-Kaiser's impressive, yellow-colored three-seater touring car chugged up outside the Animal Farm with horn tooting and delighted children squealing and cheering.

Children and parents had thronged to a parking lot across the street from the Animal Farm as much as a half-hour prior to Santa-Kaiser's arrival.

As soon as Santa debarked from his touring car they rushed across the street and surrounded him.

The Animal Farm, which sports Disney-like animal "robots" lining either side of a red-carpeted walkway that leads to Santa's "throne," will be open to the public every day but Sunday through Dec. 24.

Visiting hours are 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., 3:50 p.m. and 6:30-8:30 p.m.

The opening of Santa's Animal Farm Friday marked the 10th consecutive year the DLBA has participated in the project, but the first year of participation by Kaiser.

The Saturday course will run for three hours, ending at 1 p.m., according to J.A. Brown, class instructor. The Monday and Wednesday advanced course will run from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each night.

The standard first aid textbook will be used in both classes.

"I GUESS NOW THAT YOU'RE SEVEN, WE'D BETTER CALL YA TOM, HUH TOMMY?"

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: The year ahead will find you making many fresh beginnings -- away from old ties, emotional habits. Changing external conditions provoke inner personal growth -- you cannot simply remain what you have been. Old limitations now become sources of spiritual strength. Today's natives adapt readily, show a generally agreeable manner, excel in persuasive powers.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Short trips, brief visits pay off readily. New studies, investigations produce immediate, fascinating results, particularly in self-improvement.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): This should be a normal, enjoyable Sunday of no special stress. Join in the community's expression of faith. Share your favorite pastimes, intellectual interests.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Arrange an unexpected, entertaining experience for somebody you care about. Journeys have pleasant results. Hobbies may come in favorable notice now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Visit all your friends, catch up with the latest news. Get the animals in any personal concern where you can't bet directly at the cause.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Include your loved ones in your adventures this Sunday. Experience now will lead you in some more practical term of creative expression. Meditate this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): This is a stay-home and work week-end, with much achieved, perhaps in improving household arrangements. The evening is filled with settlement of old issues.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Correspondence, discussions, short trips and brief visits are all productive. Your usual routines are interrupted in the later hours, probably for good news.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Social contact, though quiet, has a subtle added meaning for you now. Travel can be educational. You must reach well ahead and onward to make a much needed advance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your duties to your community lead you to unfamiliar places and to contacts that later prove very constructive. An unusual earnings chance opens briefly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The larger the group you join today, the better. Your leadership is significant, even though you take a small role in the discussion. Visit friends, make your views known.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Think of improving your personal world, bridging the gap between people, relating your ventures in other activities, share your hobbies with others.

STUDENT JOBS HARD TO FIND

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

The scarcity of parttime jobs for young persons has driven at least 500 students to seek work farther from campus and at lower wage rates than ever before, according to officials at California State College, Fullerton.

And most of those students have been looking for work since September, an administrative spokesman added.

"EIGHT DOLLARS a week is all I've been able to earn," one coed lamented recently. "That comes to just about what it takes to keep my car running."

"Right now," she added, "I'd take just about anything within reason."

She is typical of many students, according to the administrator, including a large segment of the student body who planned their classes in tightly-scheduled blocks to free mornings or afternoons for work.

"Offers of jobs for students this year simply have been slow in developing," said Mrs. Marjorie T. Horsley, of the campus placement office — first place at the college student job-hunters turn to.

MAJOR REASON for the lack of employment for students is the slack national economy, she said. Of 1,500 letters mailed by the office to potential employers last August, only 752 responses listing parttime jobs were received at Cal State-Fullerton.

Last year, explained Mrs. Horsley, an equal number of queries drew positive reactions from 1,050 business establishments and other employers.

Because the sliding economy has created problems all across the employment board, another segment of the job-seeking students must not only worry about themselves, but their families too.

A girl undergraduate at Cal State-Fullerton, the oldest of seven children, typifies this group, according to the administrator.

HER FATHER recently was laid off his job as an engineer in Orange County, the administrator said, and she now wonders if she should quit school to ease the family's financial burdens.

"But she asked me if she could be sure of finding a job if she quit," he said. "How can you be sure?"

While some openings are expected to pop up on a short term basis, she added, no real end is in sight for the shortage of jobs for students, some of whom have even shaved beards and trimmed long hair in desperation.

"Right now," said Mrs. Horsley, "the jobs just aren't there."

McKash Rites Set Wednesday

Services will be Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Dilday Family Chapel for Alfred Thomas McKash, Long Beach businessman and World War I veteran. Mr. McKash, 76, died Thursday.

A native of Michigan, he came to Long Beach 50 years ago. He was sales representative for Pacific Union Metal Co. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Elks Lodge No. 888, and the Peterson Post of the American Legion.

Surviving are a stepson, Thomas Crosby; stepdaughter, Ruth Mae Crutchfield, both of Long Beach, and a sister, Mrs. Edna Barrett.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Address all questions to Garden Editor, Independent Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. No stamps or self-addressed envelopes, please. Answers are given only in this column.

STRELITZIA REGINAE . . . Royal Bird of Paradise

The royal bird of paradise (Strelitzia reginae) has striking blue-white and orange tropical bird-like blossoms. These plants grow easily whether in the ground or in containers. They grow well in sun or up to half shade but they do not bloom well. Some gardeners have waited as long as nine years before their plants began to flower.

There are several possible causes for their slow development. If planted too deep or if they lack sufficient deep watering, these plants may not put forth flowers. Thoughtless cutting back of old leaves without first determining whether there is an embryo flower or leaf developing within the tight hollow fold of the leaf stem near the base of the plant also may prevent blooms.

PLANTS should be set out at the proper depth. There should be one-half inch of soil above the top-most root-size roots. The prepared soil should be firmed well. They need deep watering throughout the whole root ball area. The best nourishment is an annual top dressing of about three inches of manure or some form of spread-mulch material containing bone meal. One of the flower-fruit maker fertilizers sprinkled over the pre-moistened soil before the top-dressing material is spread is beneficial. Any of the previous year's top dressing is first scraped off to avoid smothering the lower portion of the plants.

The surest way to have the bird of paradise plant bloom right from the beginning is to purchase a larger size that already is flowering! Normally it continues to blossom annually. Sometimes, it may not flower the following year, but thereafter it will.

RECENTLY we had occasion to check up about some new chrysanthemums with one of the foremost mum authorities in Southern California, Bill Ishizu. We learned it is better to pound the last two inches of the mum flower stem before placing it in water. The stem pounding helps the blossom draw up water and the flower stays fresh longer.

CLUB NOTES

The Belmont Heights Garden Club will hold its Christmas party Tuesday, at 1 p.m. in Wesley Hall at Third Street and Termino avenue. Visitors are welcome.

GARDEN CLINIC

Q — When is the best time for trimming or cutting back the climbing geranium, and how far do you cut it back? A. R.

A — I presume you mean ivy leaf geranium which you've trained on a lattice frame and which trails over a pot or the ground. If such is the situation, you should have cut back the secondary branches to within two or three buds of the heavier longer canes when the plant finished blooming. You can cut them back now provided the plant is in a warm, sunny location, free from frost. A light feeding with an all-purpose plant food containing less nitrogen than phosphoric acid when new growth has developed couple of inches would help the plant.

Q — I'd like to know how to trim Texas Umbrella tree (china berry). We have about 30 trees in the desert. They are six years old. They didn't look as nice during the last two years as they did before. I'd like to know how to trim them. A. T.

A — The trees develop masses of branches. Cut out every third or fourth long sucker like upright branch. This trimming in the winter, helps thin the trees. If they get more water than what the rains provide, they would improve. A mulch of manure over the soil also would tend to conserve the moisture.

BRIEFLY . . .

A 'Good Book' to Give This Christmas; Big Building Dip

By LES RODNEY

This is the first Sunday of Advent. Louis Cassels, religion writer of UPI, likes to make the point that if you accept the premise that Christmas is supposed to have some religious significance, you ought to be wide open to the suggestion that the best possible Christmas gift is a Bible.

If you like the idea, there are several exceptionally fine new editions of the Bible available for the first time. The New English Bible and the New American Bible are both fresh translations from the original Hebrew and Greek into very readable contemporary English.

The New English Bible (Oxford and Cambridge University Press, standard edition $9.95) is the work of Protestant English scholars. The New American Bible (St. Anthony Guild Press or Catholic Book Publishing Co., $8.50) was produced by American Catholic scholars. However, neither translation has any narrow denominational bias. Any Protestant minister in town would be delighted if many of his parishioners, and especially their youngsters, were to discover or rediscover the richness of Scriptures in the Catholic-produced version. And vice versa, we are sure.

Much as we may all cherish the familiar soaring imagery of the King James Version, common sense (and sad experience) should suggest that youngsters today can be baffled and thus turned off by 16th Century English. There is nothing "holy" about a particular translation made by men even great men — in a particular time. This is another time. What's more, new findings since the KJV, including the Dead Sea Scrolls, and improved tools of scholarship and research, bring richer detail and an ever-sharper focus to "The Greatest Story Every Told."

We don't mean here to ignore several other good modern versions, including the excellent Council of Churches-sponsored — National Revised Version, which has played a very useful role. These, however, are "re-writes" of the KJ, and thus cannot have the freshness and new unity of current translations from the original tongues.

If you have a big list of people and a small budget, you could do worse than "Good News for Modern Man." This is the New Testament in sprightly, idiomatic English, illustrated by 200 line drawings. Don't necessarily send it to your friend the college professor. About 24 million copies have been sold. The publishing loss of 35 cents is made up by the non-profit American Bible Society. If you don't see it around, you can order it directly from the Society at 1265 Broadway, N.Y. 10023.

For really young readers, there are some good books of Bible stories, notably the series of paperbacks with full-color, full-page illustrations. Concordia Publishing Co., 39 cents each, set of six, $2.25. Also the Taize Picture Bible, $4.95 and the Bible for Children, Westminster, $4.95.

For the blind, or the elderly with failing vision, there is always the "Talking Bible." The American Bible Society has recorded "Good News" on records for $6.95, or in cassettes for $29. (Orders to the Society, for books or recordings, must be accompanied by a 5 per cent fee for mailing and handling.)

Finally, if you're in a real splurging mood for someone special, you might consider the new deluxe edition of the Jerusalem Bible with 32 extraordinary color plates by Salvador Dali (Doubleday, $39.95). If you are like us and often baffled by surrealist paintings, don't worry. Dali's magnificent art in this Bible is a complete departure from that style. To add to its appeal, this is a large type edition. The Jerusalem Bible, a French translation available in English only since 1966, has been acclaimed by Protestant and Catholic scholars.

No don't go saying: "I have no idea in the world what to give him . . ."

A GROWING group at Cal State Long Beach is Christian Faculty-in-Action. Its thinking, as explained by a spokesman, is "We view men as total individuals, with spiritual as well as intellectual, emotional and physical needs." Its Thanksgiving faculty breakfast was an overflow success, with more than 150 present. Speaker was Dr. Ralph L. Byron, a veteran of the Navy Medical Corps, now clinical professor of surgery at U.C. Irvine.

LUTHERAN COUNCIL informs us that with the narrow victory of Democrat Vance Hartke, senior senator from Indiana, the Lutheran contingent in the

"MAY I HAVE A MOMENT OF YOUR TIME?"

DR. FRANK M. KEPNER, PASTOR

Have you ever taken a trip to Hawaii or Europe or Texas? Before flying to Hawaii, you would ask, "What is the weather like?" Should I take summer clothes or winter clothes, or something in between?" Before flying to Europe, you would get a little pocket dictionary and learn to say "Thank you" and "Pass the sugar, please" and "What is the fare." In the language of the country you planned to visit. Before driving to Texas, you would have your car lubricated, the oil changed, the tires checked. You would get a map showing the latest highway improvements. You would decide where you wanted to stay the first night on the road.

If you were going to Hawaii or Europe or Texas, interesting, isn't it, especially in view of the fact that we give so little attention to our journey toward that eternal land in which we will dwell forever.

We have some road maps available and some suggestions as to where to stay and what to do along the way. Why not give us a call, or better still, visit anyone of our services tomorrow.

Sincerely,

--Happy 195th, Navy Chaplains!

They've been going into battle armed with faith, knowledge, love and little else for 195 years.

From the battles of the Barbary Coast, Lake Champlain, and Manila Bay to Midway, Iwo Jima and Khe Sanh, the Navy

PHOENIX LEADER OF METHODISTS

Rev. Dr. Donald Locher, former pastor of Long Beach Los Altos Methodist Church, now district superintendent in Phoenix, will preach Sunday, 9:30 and 11 a.m. in California Heights Church, 3759 Orange Ave. He is former leader of the Southland Methodist youth organization.

Chaplain Corps has served with valor.

As old as the Navy itself, the Chaplain Corps observes its 195th anniversary today. It was founded by the Continental Congress which adopted the second article of Navy Regulations on November 28, 1775, providing for Divine Services aboard ships of the 13 colonies.

John Paul Jones wrote to naval authorities in 1778 seeking to obtain chaplains for the USS Ranger and USS Bon Homme Richard. Since then the Chaplain Corps has contributed much to creating a better life for seafaring men with innovations such as:

—Halting of flogging and introduction of welfare and recreation programs.

—Urging that a Naval Academy be established in correspondence with the Secretary of the Navy by Chaplain Robert Thompson in 1807.

—Formation of human relations committees.

—Providing special training of lay leaders for those ships without chaplains.

Today the size of the Navy Chaplain Corps stands at 1,000. During World War II, the ranks expanded to an unprecedented 2,800, while in the Korean War, more than 35 per cent of the Corps participated in winning 200 awards, including 20 Purple Hearts. To date, more than 650 chaplains have served in Vietnam.

The Navy Chaplain Corps is composed of men from 47 denominations. Of the 1,000 active duty Navy chaplains, eight are Jewish, about 280 are Roman Catholic, four are Eastern Orthodox and the remainder are Protestant. The five major Protestant denominations represented are Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, and Episcopal.

While on active duty, the chaplain conducts his ministry in accordance with the practices of his church and the dictates of his conscience. The Chaplain's Manual explicitly states that he will be "free to preach, counsel, perform the Sacraments, and wear his vestments in accordance with the church or religion to which he belongs."

The Navy chaplaincy is a specialized ministry focusing upon young people. Eighty per cent of the total military population is between 18-30 years of age. This has necessitated a youthful approach. Thus, besides the traditional divine services, chaplains have been successful with small group discussions and seminars, dialogues, folk masses, modern liturgies, visual aids and other innovative ideas.

The Navy chaplain finds his flock wherever it may roam. Utilizing the ever-present helicopter for "Holy Helo Ops" — Navy jargon for the helicopter transportation of the chaplains — he is now able to visit virtually any ship. On those lacking helicopter landing platforms, the chaplain "floats down from the sky" as he is lowered in a sling from the hovering chopper.

But the Navy chaplain doesn't always restrict himself to his Navy followers. While overseas he participates in programs designed to alleviate some of the hardships of others.

In Vietnam, chaplains of the Fleet Marine Force distribute food, clothing, sewing material, toys and teaching aids to institutions such as hospitals, schools and orphanages. Elsewhere, the Navy Chaplain continues this work with visionaries and civilian religious leaders in other countries heading up volunteer groups of sailors to lend a hand.

Local Navy Chaplains celebrated their Corps' 195th anniversary with a dinner at U.S. Naval Station, San Diego, on Tuesday. Long Beach Chaplains attended the district function at which the keynote speaker was Rear Admiral Frank Garrett, Chief of Navy Chaplains.

Twenty-two Navy chaplains are located in or homeported out of Long Beach and their duties vary from riding "tin-cans" to ministering to patients at the U.S. Naval Hospital. Senior chaplain is Commander John C. Condit, CHC, USN (a Captain selectee) who wears two hats. One as Senior Chaplain of the Naval Station and the other as Staff Chaplain to Commander, Naval Base, Los Angeles-Long Beach.

CHAPLAIN LCDR. Roch M. Laurenzano administers sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church on the mess deck of Destroyer USS E. A. Greene. He is attached to the Carrier Constellation, and regularly visits other ships that do not carry chaplains.

Memorial Concert for Rev. Awerkamp

An Awerkamp Memorial Concert, in tribute to the late veteran pastor, will be held Sunday, 3 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran Church, 759 Linden Ave., featuring Morris Mosby at the organ and a group of youthful instrumentalists and soloists. Hymns, music of present-day young people, and portions of Handel's Messiah and the works of Bach will be offered. Mosby, a former Hollywood Bowl Award winner as a high school student, is back from a series of concerts in El Paso, Tex. in which he played to sold out houses of 3,200 people.

MORE ON BRIEFLY COLUMN

92nd Congress will total three senators and 11 representatives, a gain of one. Hartke is a member of a Missouri Synod church in Evansville.

The other Senate incumbents, both of whose current terms expire in 1974, are the veteran Warren G. Magnuson of Washington, member of an ALC church (American Lutheran Church) in Seattle, and Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, former member of the executive council of the Lutheran Church in America (LCA). Thus all three major Lutheran bodies are represented in the Senate. Magnuson and Hollings are also Democrats.

No, all Lutheran solons are not Democrats. In fact, all eight Lutheran incumbents in the House are Republicans.

In one Congressional race last month, one Lutheran unseated another. You know what state THAT had to be in.

GOVERNMENT figures show that outlays for religious construction, which amounted to $17 billion in the past 20 years, has slowed down. From an all-time peak of $1.2 billion in 1966, the figure declined to $950 million in 1969, and Commerce Department officials expect it will dip below $900 million this year.

The decrease in church construction is actually steeper than the figures suggest. Because of rising costs, $800 million now will buy less space than $600 million would bring in five years ago.

Or to break it down for a local congregation, a structure that would have cost $300,000 in 1965 would cost more than $400,000 now. Not to mention those higher interest rates.

FROM THE PULPIT

This Sunday at 9:45 we are having a special unified service in the main auditorium for our entire Sunday School. Instead of the usual classes, we will feature a special evangelistic service featuring Dr. Bill Dowell, prominent preacher and theologian from Springfield, Missouri.

Special music will include the Men's Quartet and other special groups. Special classes and services are also provided for the children from the Junior Department down through the Nurseries.

All services will be over at 11:30. Special arrangements for parking have been made and special workers are waiting to help you in any way possible. This old-fashioned preaching service is like something out of the past for this generation.

Perhaps it has been a long time since you attended a service that really thrilled your heart and deeply moved you. These services are completely informal, yet they are completely centered in God's Word, in thrilling singing and in Christian fellowship. Acquaint yourself with the ministry of Calvary by attending this special service. You will be most welcomed.

CONFIDENT LIVING

He Spoke Right Up on His Faith

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

It's amazing what incredible things happen when you believe in something. But such results do not come unless you REALLY believe and are not afraid to let people know of your belief.

I was appointed by the President of the United States on a special commission to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the United Nations. The President invited the members of the commission, together with foreign policy leaders of the Senate and the House of Representatives, to a dinner in the White House, at which Secretary General of the United Nations U Thant was the guest of honor.

SPEECHES WERE made acclaiming him a great man. Then the President called on Thant, who made a most remarkable response. He said something like this: "I am a Buddhist, a loyal Buddhist. I believe Buddha was the world's greatest religious leader. I was reared in a conservative Buddhist home. I accepted the Buddhist principles taught to me by my honorable parents, for whom I had great respect as godly people. I have spent my entire life learning to follow Buddha. If I have any qualities at all, it is because I am a disciple of Buddha."

Now at that dinner I presume most of the people were Christians or Jews, and the question that arose in my mind was this: would any one of them have testified to their own faith in such a setting? Would they have been embarrassed or thought it wasn't polite, or would they have feared it would run counter to civil liberties? Do you or I have such courage of our convictions?

It could motivate a great change and create a different atmosphere in this country if people who have faith in their religion and in their country would, like U Thant, come right out and say so. In this country, it seems, religious traditions, which should be defended! We must stand up and be counted — or everything we believe in could go down the drain. We don't have to apologize for our faith — whatever it is — indeed, we should be proud of it!

Well, fortunately, some people do express themselves in this way. J. C. Penney, founder of a chain of 1,660 stores, says, "I never apologize for pleading for better Christian homes, because my entire experience tells me that successful dealings between men in business, government, and social relationships are influenced for good or ill by home backgrounds."

When J. C. Penney opened his first retail outlet in Wyoming, he called it the "Golden Rule Store." He says the emphasis laid from the very beginning upon human relationships — both toward the public, through careful service and giving the utmost in values, and toward his associates — is the factor which has contributed most to the growth and influence of his organization.

"I always attend the church of my choice, but apparently it was the wrong choice."

Lutherans Ordain Woman

For the first time in the Western Hemisphere, the Lutheran Church has ordained a woman to the "holy ministry of the Word and Sacraments." She is Elizabeth A. Platz, a 30-year-old native of Pittsburgh, Pa., who has served in the Lutheran campus chaplain program at the University of Maryland for the past five years.

The historic ceremony took place in Memorial Chapel of the University of Maryland last Sunday, before an audience of university students and faculty members, area laymen and clergy.

Miss Platz, who graduated from Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, Pa., in 1965, was approved for ordination almost unanimously by the Maryland Synod of the 3.2 million-member Lutheran Church in America.

Methodists Cut Ties With K.C. Mission Over Black's Broadcast

CLINTON, Mo. (United Methodist Information) — The Missouri West Annual Conference in a special session here severed all financial relationships with the Methodist Inner City Parish in Kansas City, Mo. The resolution also asked that a task force be named to develop plans for a new urban mission.

The action to sever financial ties grows out of unrest and dissatisfaction within the conference over a broadcast made by Rev. Phillip C. Lawson, executive director of the parish, Vietnam this summer. In while on a visit to North the broadcast, Mr. Lawson called on black U.S. soldiers to prevent the "racist white soldiers from slaughtering" Vietnamese women and children and "disobey all racist orders and their racist orders."

Subsequent to his return to the U.S. and announcement of the broadcast, Mr. Lawson's appointment as director of the parish was terminated by Bishop Eugene M. Frank and the Missouri West cabinet, but the parish board of directors refused to accept the termination.

Rev. Phillip C. Lawson is a brother of Rev. James M. Lawson, national head of Black Methodists for Church Renewal.

Rev. Dr. Paul Tassell, national youth representative for the General Association of Regular Baptist Churches, and editor of Regular Baptist Press youth materials, will speak Sunday, 7 p.m. in California Heights Baptist Church, 4130 Gardenia Ave. Former campus pastor at Ames, Iowa, his ministry includes youth conferences, evangelistic campaigns, and campus talks.

GOINGS ON

Stars in Advent Opera Premiere

The Advent season gets under way musically with what promises to be a most interesting evening Sunday, 8 p.m. in California Heights Methodist, 3759 Orange Ave. It is a premier performance of the opera-oratorio "Secundum Lucam," written by Edmund Najera, who has used the Advent story related by St. Luke as the basis. Najera's chamber work "The Freeway Opera" was premiered by Immaculate Heart College two years ago and was featured at annual meeting of the National Opera Assn. Choir, soloist narrator and orchestra will be employed in the new work Sunday. Soloists will be Patricia Hugen, soprano, vocalist with the University of Judaism Fine Arts Chorale, who sang with the New York City Opera and Greek Theater opera this year; Marcellee Cartaga, alto, winner in the San Francisco Opera finals, and finalist in the Southern California Metropolitan Opera auditions this year, who will appear in leading roles with the West End Opera Co.; Dennis Heath, tenor, an original member soloist of the Young Americans choral group; and Roger Ardrey, baritone, music prof. at Cal State L.B. who will be heard as soloist in the opening concert at the L.A. Music Center.

The Southland's lively and popular "Gospel Lads" will be singing Sunday at 9:45 and 10:45 in Westside Church of the Nazarene, 2911 Santa Fe Ave. . . J. S. Bach's cantata No. 140 "Wachet auf" will be presented by the Sanctuary Choir, accompanied by an instrumental ensemble, as part of an Advent choral evensong Sunday, 4 p.m. in First Congregational, 241 Cedar Ave. . . John Huk, a Christian Church minister who is an expert on Russia, will speak Monday, 7:30 p.m. in Lakewood First Christian, 6236 Woodruff Ave. on "God Is Opening Doors in Russia"

Ex-Navy Man to Be Installed in Lakewood

Rev. Ralph H. Moe will be officially installed as pastor of Holy Spirit Lutheran Church, 21225 Bloomfield Ave., Lakewood Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

Fittingly he will be introduced by Rev. H. O. Egerton, interim pastor, under whose guidance Rev. Moe was a young Lutheran Leaguer 30 years ago in Los Angeles.

The new pastor, 45, is a native of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, who enlisted in the Navy during World War II at age 17. After graduating from Pepperdine and Lutheran Theological Seminary of St. Paul, he held several pastorates and then served with the Navy in the Far East. He comes to Lakewood from Mt. Calvary Lutheran of La Puente.

Rev. Moe serves on the Board of Missions of the American Lutheran Church. With his wife Betty and three children (a fourth is married), he will live at the church's parsonage in Buena Park.

Is violence the answer?

No. It doesn't solve anything. Neither is it inevitable.

It is no part of God, or of the man He made.

When people turn to divine intelligence for guidance, they find solutions without violence and replace anger with love.

If you want to do something about building a world based on divine Love, join us on Sunday. Visit our classes for young people up to the age of 20.

BUT MOUNDSVILLE HAS NO THEATERS

Stewart Has Faith in Films

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jimmy Stewart, what's going on with movies, television and the theater? He's a good man to ask. Stewart has starred in 75 films, been on Broadway, won an Oscar in 1940

(Philadelphia Story), and made the first deal for an actor participating in profits with a major studio (Universal's "Winchester '73"). His answer: "I keep trying to analyze what's happening to show business. I love it, have faith in it, and I've benefited from it for more than 35 years. I care about movies."

"It's very easy to say that there'll always be a show business. And just as easy to say it's dead. The truth lies somewhere between."

"But I was brought to a start recently when I spent almost seven weeks on location in Moundsville, W. Va. It's a mining and manufacturing town with beautiful trees, freshly painted houses and a population of 16,000 — the same as it was 25 years ago."

"People talk of poverty pockets, but not in Moundsville. It's so prosperous the young people aren't moving away. They have four beautiful elementary schools, seven churches and two fine high schools."

"What I'm leading up to is this: there used to be four motion picture theaters in Moundsville. Now there are none! That brought me up short."

"I ASKED the citizens why and I got different answers but I had the impression they were enthusiastic movie fans."

"It's a county seat and the business section is flourishing."

"What I'm leading up to is this: there used to be four motion picture theaters in Moundsville. Now there are none! That brought me up short."

"I ASKED the citizens why and I got different answers but I had the impression they were enthusiastic movie fans."

"It finally got down to the fact people didn't like the kind of pictures being made. So they quit going. But they still enjoy movies on television. It's nostalgic thing for older people and young alike."

"They especially enjoy the films of the 40s and early 50s. They've almost become collector's items. Hell, maybe I've become a collector's item myself."

"If they want to see a movie they have to drive 35 miles to Wheeling. The closing of those four movie houses reveals a lot of things."

"The Moundsvilles across the country have been the backbone of movies. This is thought provoking. These people won't buy the kind of pictures made since movies tried to fight back after television."

"They don't want to listen to four-letter words or watch everybody taking off their clothes. I don't either. Basically, I think the motion picture business is tiring of it too."

STEWART currently is starring in "The Fools' Parade" at Columbia. Beginning early next year he will star in a television series, "Family Plan," in which he plays a college professor.

"I think I ought to take a crack at television before it's too late. I want the show to be pleasant and funny."

Stewart didn't say so, but he clearly feels those two elements are disappearing from motion pictures.

RYAN'S DAUGHTER

British playwright Robert Bolt once told his wife Sarah Miles not to think about ending her career as an actress until she'd played the starring role in a big hit on the London stage. She's accomplished both, including the title role in the film "Ryan's Daughter," which was written by Bolt. Here they are on location during filming.

As a guide to moviegoers this newspaper lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing the Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the Film Board of National Organizations.

SCROOGE — Charles Dickens' ageless "Christmas Carol" is warmly recreated in this musical with Albert Finney masterfully portraying the miser who has a change of heart. (G)

FIVE EASY PIECES — Former musical prodigy Jack Nicholson escapes an intellectually sterile environment by working as a hard hat in a California oil field. (R)

THE VAMPIRE LOVERS — A family of vampires horrifies an area of Europe in the 18th and 19th centuries. (R)

SONG OF NORWAY — A cinematic operetta in which the dramatic grandeur of Norway's fjords and mountains fails to offset the hollow story of composer Edward Grieg's emergence. (G)

SON OF FLUBBER — Disney's comedy sequel to the "Absent-Minded Professor" again starring Fred MacMurray (G)

RYAN'S DAUGHTER — The awesome beauty of the Irish coastline is the background for a rather frail love story starring Robert Mitchum and Sarah Miles. (R)

THE MCKENZIE BREAK — World War II German submarine commanders escape from a prisoner of war camp in England. Stars Brian Keith. (GP)

DIARY OF A MAD

HOUSEWIFE — Newcomer Carrie Snodgrass triumphs as a beleaguered housewife married to pompous lawyer Richard Benjamin. (R)

Irish Eyes Smiling, Focused on Troy

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

Pity the poor Trojans. Measured for immortality two months ago, they will be fighting for survival today when they face big, bad and unbeaten Notre Dame at 1:30 p.m. in the Coliseum.

If good weather prevails, a crowd of about 62,000 is expected for the televised contest (Ch. 7).

For the first time this season, USC will go into the game an underdog. The Irish, winners of nine games, are favored by 12 points.

But Trojan coach John McKay isn't conceding anything in advance.

"We upset them in 1964," he says, recalling the game in which USC rallied from a 17-0 deficit to topple the undefeated Irish, 20-17.

McKay also has added a little heat to the battle by stating that Notre Dame quarterback Joe Theismann "isn't as good as Dennis Dummit of UCLA."

Theismann finished second to Stanford's Jim Plunkett in Heisman Trophy balloting.

Notre Dame hasn't beaten USC since 1966 when it crushed the Trojans 51-0, the worst defeat in Troy football history.

Although USC's recent performances might indicate the Irish could duplicate 1966, Notre Dame coach Ara Parseghian is playing it cool.

"We know Southern Cal is as fine a team as there is in the country and we aren't fooled one bit by the fact that it has lost four games," says Parseghian.

But Notre Dame, offensively and defensively, appears much too strong for USC, which started the season with great hope but has lost four of its last six games, including a 45-20 decision to UCLA last week.

The Irish have scored 302 points to 59 for the opposition. The Trojans have scored 305, but have yielded 205.

Notre Dame has averaged 505.3 yards in total offense per game and have limited its opponents to 202.1. USC has averaged 460 and given up 357.

Theismann has completed 122 of 210 passes for 1,903 yards and 14 touchdowns.

LANCERS STOP PIONEER, REACH SEMIS Lakewood Defense Sharp, 21-13

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

It's time Lakewood High's defense stood up and took a bow.

While the offense sputtered at times, Lancer defenders turned in another steady performance Friday night and the result was a 21-13 CIF quarter-final round victory over Pioneer at Veterans Stadium.

It marks the second year in a row that Lakewood has advanced as far as the semis.

The Lancers seemingly were on the verge of putting the Whittier school out of reach several times, but never could apply a knock-out punch.

Pioneer was in the game until the final seconds despite a minus-five yards rushing.

Pioneer's one big threat was quarterback Ruben Elizalde.

Elizalde spent half the night scrambling for his life under a strong pass rush led by Joe Willis and Rich Frederick.

The stocky junior was sacked 10 times for losses totaling 75 yards, yet managed 188 yards through the air on 10 completions in 21 attempts.

Under constant pressure, the inevitable happened. The result turned out to be a Lakewood's deciding touchdown.

Versatile Gary Brewsbaugh stepped in front of Junior Garcia to intercept Elizalde's first pass attempt of the second half and ran 30 yards for a touchdown.

Paul Gorham's kick made it 21-7 with 3:13 remaining in the quarter and the large crowd of 15,500 thought it was all over.

But the Lancer offense, turned as cold as the night and never got untracked again.

Elizalde, despite being sacked three times, drove his team 80 yards in 13 plays with fullback Frank Bencomo diving over from the one to score with 3:38 remaining in the game.

The extra point attempt sailed under the cross bar. Pioneer got the ball again with 45 seconds to go on its own 33. The Titans were forced to retreat in the final minute and the game ended with Elizalde scrambling for his life on the nine.

As sophomore Pete Tereschuk failed to fire a touchdown pass for the first time this season, most of the Lancer attack centered around tailback Mike Owens.

Owens scored twice in the first half to give his team a 14-7 lead at intermission. The talented 5-10, 175-pound senior tallied on runs of 2 and 73 yards and wound up with a season high 149 yards on 27 attempts.

Lakewood scored the first time it handled the ball, going 61 yards in eight plays as Owens went over right tackle from the two with 6:09 still left in the first quarter.

Tereschuk threw back-to-back passes of 26 yards to Floyd Heaton and 13 to Brewsbaugh to put the team in good position.

Midway through the second quarter Elizalde threw his 23rd TD pass of the season, 18 yards to Bob Vasquez to tie the game.

Owens put Lakewood ahead moments later, going 73 yards on a delay up the middle to score his 13th touchdown.

The Lancers will meet Redlands in the semifinals at a site to be determined.

been sensational all season, was held to 13 rebounds — two in the second half — and scored only 12 points as the Suns outrebounded the Lakers, 68-39. The defeat left the Lakers with an 11-7 record and in a virtual tie for first place with San Francisco (13-10), the team they meet tonight in Oakland.

Phoenix ran its record to 14-11, but the Suns remain in last place in the tough Midwest Division in two of the other three divisions their record would be good for second place.

Paul Silas, the man who almost lifted the Suns to a playoff win over the Lakers last year, was the biggest trouble-maker, pulling down 22 rebounds while scoring 27 points.

Silas isn't the most agile forward in the NBA, but he found all the holes in the Laker defenses as nine of his 11 baskets were on tip-ins, most of them over Chamberlain.

The veteran forward's biggest basket came with 3:01 left and his club in the process of blowing a big lead. He sneaked under the hoop, stole a rebound from Chamberlain and put it in to give his club a five-point edge.

The Lakers had all the momentum until Silas' big play, and it flattened them. Phoenix ran off 10

TORRANCE RACER KILLED AT HAVASU

Combined News Services

LAKE HAVASU CITY — Warren Thompson of Torrance became the first fatality in the seven-year history of the World Outboard Racing Championships Friday when he was killed during speed trials.

Thompson, 43, competing in the event for the first time, died when his twin-engine DeSiva, traveling in excess of 100 mph, suddenly lurched from the water and plummeted backward, tail first.

A doctor attributed death to a fractured neck and skull, the result of "bucketing," which occurs when a racer hits the water with great impact with his helmet on and the resultant sudden and upward pressure fractures the neck.

A total of 110 drivers will compete for $63,000 in prize money today and Sunday over a four-mile course.

UCLA, IRVINE VIE IN NCAA SHOWDOWN

By ROBERT BOHLE

The pre-tournament favorites, UCLA and UC Irvine, Friday swept into tonight's championship game in the NCAA water polo championships at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool.

The Bruins knocked off UC Santa Barbara, 7-6, and San Jose State, 7-4, to gain the finals. The Anteaters defeated USC, 7-4, and Cal State Long Beach, 9-6. The title game is at 8-40 p.m.

UCLA's Paul Beskechazy netted four goals to lead his team in squeezing past Santa Barbara in the tournament's opening game. The Gauchos made their six goals on only seven attempted shots.

The Bruins breezed past their second opponent, PCAA runner-up, San Jose State. Jim Ferguson led the scoring with four goals.

UC Irvine, irritated at being matched with Pacific runner-up USC in the first round, settled down after a disastrous first half to soundly defeat the Trojans.

Before the game with UC Irvine, Long Beach coach Jim Schultz admitted the 49ers had only a slim chance to defeat the Anteaters, who had already downed his 49ers twice in regular season play.

"We are going to have to do everything right to win it," Schultz said. "We are going to try to bottle up (Ferdie) Massimo and keep the ball away from him."

The Anteaters wasted no time running Schultz' theory. Massimo tossed in two goals and Mason Philpot added one to put UCI out front 3-0.

The 49ers were saved from a scoreless first period by a penalty shot by Steve Wagner with 23 seconds left.

Ferdie, whose brother Rick traveled north to play with Stanford, scored five goals in the game, most on strength advantage over the smaller 49er defenders.

"Massimo is a great athlete," lamented Long Beach's Schultz after the game. "I have to stick with my earlier choice of UCI to win it all. It is a very strong team."

Schultz had special praise for his goalie, Gary Drent, an all-America selection last year, and also Bob Shupp and Joe Godbout. Shupp scored two goals, one of which tied the score, 3-3, early in the second period.

In other first round games, San Jose State defeated Stanford, 9-7, and the 49ers easily disposed of Colorado State, 9-6.

49ers Must Stifle Ho-Hum Attitude at Valley

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

The axiom that a football team and coach are only as good as their last game may be haunting Cal State Long Beach and coach Jim Stangeland Sunday morning.

Their football season is one game too long. Eight days after winning the Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. title and an invitation to the Pasadena Bowl, the 49ers must wrap up the regular portion of their year by playing Valley State.

Under the circumstances, the assignment is perplexing.

Eight days ago the 49ers humbled the nation's 14th-ranked university team, San Diego State, 27-11, before 39,005 spectators in Anaheim Stadium.

Tonight the 49ers must repel Valley State, the No. 3 team in the California Collegiate Athletic Assn., before possibly 5,000 spectators at Birmingham High School in the valley. Kickoff is at 8 o'clock.

It is a game that many find hard to get excited about.

Even the writer who chronicles 49er events for this newspaper finds it difficult to look forward to watching.

HOW TO GET THERE

Take San Diego Freeway to Ventura Freeway. West on Ventura Freeway to Balboa Blvd., north on Balboa to Birmingham High School.

from a roofless pressbox, a game that quite likely will be contested in a downpour.

Stangeland believes the 49ers will be equal to the problems.

"We have worked very hard this week on Valley State," the Cal State coach says. "We do not have a powerful football team. We cannot play very well unless we are running hungry and a little scared.

"The coaching staff knows this and I think enough of our players realize the same thing. I think we've done everything we can to prepare the team for this game and I would be surprised if they did not play a good game."

The mud, Stangeland believes, could be more of a factor than the 49ers' emotional condition.

"Mud is a great equalizer," Stangeland cautions, "and if the game is played in a downpour, it could be a factor. Unusual things can happen, things beyond anyone's control, when it rains."

The Cal State season was virtually written off when the 49ers ungloriously lost their home opener to Hawaii, 23-14, and their record dipped to 1-2.

A week later, with all-America Leon Burns still hobbled by an ankle injury, the 49ers started their current seven-game win streak with an unimpressive 7-3 decision over San Jose State.

Seven days later, however, in Veterans Stadium, the 49ers handed Boise State its first loss of the season, 27-14. Cal State has rolled uncheckered since.

The 49ers then ripped UC Santa Barbara, 33-7; Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, 49-20; Fresno State, 50-14; Cal State L.A., 40-7; and San Diego State, 27-11.

It is a string of successes that has pushed Cal State as high as No. 2 among college division teams in one computer football rating system and to No. 7 on United Press International's coaches' poll.

Leon McLaughlin's Matadors, who have beaten the 49ers three successive times, are 4-5 for the year and have been a very inconsistent club.

"I think we have a pretty good team," McLaughlin contends, "when we can get everything together."

Led by Ted Covington, the most productive pass catcher in Valley history, the Matadors enter tonight's contest off their most impressive performance of the season—a 45-0 pasting of Cal State L.A.

Big Game, Wet Field for Rams

By AL LARSON
Staff Writer

"We're not too old. We're just been playing like we're too old," says George Allen.

The importance of Sunday's game at ancient Kezar Stadium and the memory of a 20-6 loss to the 49ers in the Coliseum last month should make Allen's warriors feel younger.

"I hope they remember that first game. I'd sure be disappointed if they didn't," Allen said Friday as the Rams drew up final battle plans for their biggest league game since 1967.

"This is the biggest game since I've been with the Rams," linebacker

"It all comes down to luck. Whoever gets a lead will have a big advantage. Then you can make them play your game. We know it's going to be a messy field like we had in Minnesota," Gabriel added.

"I think we're ready, though. Everyone is tense and loose, but in a different way," said Gabriel.

Kermit Alexander, who will be playing against his former mates for the first time in San Francisco, acknowledged that they have a tarp for the field at Kezar but they never use it. They're supposed to move to Candlestick next year, but if they win they might not want to leave Kezar.

"We've had good practices this week," said Ed Meador. "I think we're in our best physical shape, too," the veteran defensive back stressed. "This is our biggest game since we met Green Bay in 1967, but circumstances now are a little different."

Merlin Olsen said, "All of our games with the 49ers have counted, but there's never been one game that's been as meaningful."

"This is the biggest game I've played in since I was with the Bears and we met Green Bay in 1963," safetyman Richie Petitbon said. "We were both 9-1 at that time and it meant the championship. We won 26-7."

In 1968 Allen called Kezar "the worst I've seen in 20 years as a coach, a disgrace to the league, a quack-sand end zone that should be sold to the hippies because of the garish way she's painted."

That immediately brought a reprimand from owner Dan Reeves and a fine from NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Everyone in San Francisco is waiting for Allen's first remark when he sees the 47-year-old stadium.

Two days ago there was so much water on the field that sea gulls practiced shallow landings.

The Rams activated defensive back

Nate Shaw Friday, bringing the roster up to its 48-man limit. With Tommy Mason lost for the rest of the season, Larry Smith is expected to return to the starting lineup. Maxie Baughman and Eddie Meador are both working with the first defensive unit Friday and likely will start.

When the 49ers conquered the Rams 26-7 in the fourth week of the season at the Coliseum, John Brodie scored a TD on a surprise 12-yard QB drive. He also threw a 34-yard TD pass to Gene Washington, and ex-Ram Bruce Gossett scored on a 10-yard run.

Kicker field goals of 42 and 15 yards. The 49ers defense held the Rams to a pair of David Ray field goals, 16 and 21 yards. So far this season, Gossett has connected on 16 of 22 field goals while Ray has booted 20 of 31. Surprisingly, Gossett has had no conversion attempts, blocked. Ray has scored 81 points with his leg. Except for last time when they were able to beat the Rams in Bay Area was 1964, 21-13, although they tied 20-0 in 68. Last year's score in Kezar was Rams 41, 49ers 20.

When Detroit ended 49ers' four-game win streak last week, it marked first time this season Brodie has not thrown a TD pass. Three interceptions brought his season total to seven. Gabriel has been victimized 11 times compared to only seven last year.

Further evidence that when things go bad, they really go bad, was fact about Bruce Taylor, the SFG's leading punt returner, who was able to return only two punts for a total of 10 yards against Lions. He had been averaging 15.1 yards per return. Taylor one of two 49ers' first-round choices, DE Cedrick Hardman was injured in last draft, also is a club's regular right cornerback on defense.

Rams were 16-0 favorites in first meeting this season, but no into Stangeland's game at Candlestick underdog.

The Oct. 11 game with the Rams was the last one in which the 49ers were picked at halftime. They've been tied once and behind five times since then.

ANSWER SUNDAY

Is Kansas City on Right Track?

United Press International

It won't take the Kansas City Chiefs much longer to discover if the road they're on leads to a return trip to the Super Bowl.

The Chiefs, 5-3-2 in the Western Division of the American Football Conference, a half-game behind Oakland (6-3-2), entertain the San Diego Chargers (4-4-2) in the first of four successive games against their division lodge-brothers.

A victory over the Chargers would be a step in the right direction for the Chiefs as it would propel them into a first place tie in the AFC West with Oakland, which was defeated by Detroit on Thursday. A loss, however, would drop the Chiefs into Chargers-Chiefs matchup also features the return of Mike Garrett to Kansas City for the first meeting against his old teammates since being dealt to the Chargers early in the season.

Garrett, however, has not been sorely missed by Kansas City. Second-year man Ed Podolak rushed for a season high of 112 yards in 23 carries for the Chiefs in last week's 6-6 tie with St. Louis. In all, Podolak has gained 481 yards for an average of 4.3 yards per carry to lead the club.

Another division title picture will be clarified a bit with the outcome of the Cleveland-Pittsburgh contest. The Browns hold a one-game lead over the Steelers in the AFC Central despite having compiled a lackluster .500 record.

Bill Nelsen has been reinstated as the Browns' quarterback and helped them snap a three-game losing streak last week against Houston. The Steelers, meanwhile, have still not gotten a measure of consistency at quarterback from either Terry Bradshaw or Terry Hanratty.

Running back John Fagua was the lone encouragement for Pittsburgh last week with 119 yards rushing.

Paul Brown is not conceding yet to the Clevelanders, and a victory for his Bengals over New Orleans would keep the race close.

100,000 Expected to See Two Losers--Army, Navy

Combined News Services

The season's largest and most colorful college football crowd—more than 100,000—will gather today in Philadelphia's Kennedy Stadium to watch two of the year's losingest teams, Army and Navy.

Alabama is favored by seven to down Auburn. Both clubs are bowl-bound regardless. Alabama is heading for the Bluebonnet Bowl, Auburn to the Gator Bowl.

Oklahoma, which will oppose Alabama in the Bluebonnet, is favored by 10 to whip inter-state foe Oklahoma State. The Sooners have won the last three meetings with the Cowboys.

Both TCU (3-4-1) and SMU (5-5) bring mediocre records into the season finale. But the Mustangs have been tabbed by one point, no doubt because of quarterback Chuck Hixson.

Spectacular or not, Army brings a 1-8 record into the game while Navy is 1-8 with eight defeats in a row.

Army, which leads the series 34-30 with six ties, is an 11½-point favorite.

The coaches, Army's Tom Cahill and Navy's Rick Forzano, are optimistic despite the records.

"We're not that bad," insists Cahill.

"We're not as bad as our record," comments Forzano.

The game will be televised nationally (Channel 7, 10:30 a.m.).

What remains of the college football season is dominated by traditional tussles.

Louisiana State-Tulane, Auburn-Alabama, Georgia-Georgia Tech, Oklahoma-Oklahoma State, Tennessee-Vanderbilt and Texas Christian-Southern Methodist all will have significant local impact.

For Georgia and LSU it's more than that. Both teams must win to keep their post-season bowl hopes alive. Georgia has been offered a Peach Bowl bid if it can defeat the Engineers, while LSU must defeat both Tulane this week and Mississippi next week to land a berth in the Orange Bowl.

LSU, which dropped a heart-breaking 3-0 decision last week to Notre Dame, is a 13½-point choice over Tulane, which hasn't won in this traditional matchup since 1948.

TELE-VUES Cough Message Doesn't Penetrate

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

Some thoughts from TeleVues readers about column items — some pro, some con — are offered, as is the periodic practice:

FROM Eric David, Lakewood:

"With reference to your piece on TV ads and their ineffectiveness — I heartily agree. And have a further example.

"One of the enjoyable commercials has been the piece with the jodo expert who had a bad cold. To my way of thinking it is the best piece of slapstick in a long time. Then my wife mentioned that Vicks had a new ad. My response to that—So 'I had been watching and thoroughly enjoying the commercial BUT the message failed to penetrate. At least, some items on the tube can still generate a laugh in me."

FROM Mrs. K.R. Wehinger, Long Beach:

"Re: your review of 'The Detectives' — I had just finished telling my husband what a super show he missed... when he picked up (the) paper and saw your review...

"Our variance may arise from differences between you and me as to our love or respect or preoccupation even with the genre of the mystery story. The first skit, 'The Maltese Parakeet' was true perfection, I thought. Don Adams' Bogart was flawless, and the writing of the lines was, as well as I can remember the original, beautifully close to creating the same atmosphere. Mary Astor's counterpart in the skit was even clothed properly — the fox fur 'chubby,' the toque hat with over-the-shoulder drape falling from it. Perhaps you are too young?"

"... Upon re-reading your review, I have the feeling that you may have watched only the second half. You mention only the 'breaking up' of the actors in the final skit... The writers had, for me, done such a great job of portraying all three of my all-time 'heroes' that I was at first disappointed to that the cast of characters for this final skit was all wrong — they were all policemen whereas in the movie the great thing was the lack of law on that isolated island, making it necessary for the characters to solve the murders alone. Anyway, because the cast was 'all wrong' for me, I enjoyed the way it was done, 'breaking up' and all. Had it been done 'straight,' I would have been offended because of the liberties taken with Miss Christie's great plot."

"... This program was

Leave It To Larry

By LARRY MEDER
HARBOR CHEVROLET

Mrs. Christenson wanted to send this story to her sister in Kansas but forgot how it went — so here it goes:

A friend of mine was telling me about a dream he had Monday night in which he found a $50 bill. He was so elated he hopped on a bus, and headed straight for Disneyland. He said he had a marvelous time.

I told him that by a strange coincidence, I too had a dream Monday night in which Lana Gardiner and Ava Turner paid me a visit. After several drinks all around, they threw their arms around me and smothered me with kisses. I told him I had a wonderful time. Upon hearing this, he shouted, "SINCE YOU HAD AN EXTRA GIRL — WHY DIDN'T YOU CALL ME?" My answer was, "I DID CALL YOU — BUT YOUR MOTHER TOLD ME YOU'D GONE TO DISNEYLAND!"

Folks, if you're dreaming about a fantastic deal on a new Chevy, ask for LARRY MEDER — HARBOR CHEVROLET, GA 6-3341, 3770 Cherry.

always a dangerous live there. I never fake a review. If I don't see an entire show, I say so.

Security Pacific's 4th-Cherry Branch 50 Years Old

BANK SITE IN 1921 . . . Busy Fourth-and-Cherry Intersection

HALF-CENTURY LATER . . . Modernized Branch Just Next Door

Fifty years of community service and financial partnership will underscore the golden anniversary of Security Pacific National Bank's Fourth & Cherry branch next week.

Week-long festivities, hosted by Nicholas H. Braakenburg, manager of the branch at 2017 E. Fourth St., are scheduled daily during regular banking hours.

"We hope everyone who shares our pride in East Long Beach will drop by during the week to help us celebrate," Braakenburg said. "We at Security Pacific Bank are extremely proud to have shared 50 years of history with this fine community."

"In addition, we will have 30 photographs depicting the history of Long Beach on display in our branch lobby, and we will serve refreshments to our customers and new neighbors."

FOCUSING ON THE ERA in which the branch was founded, Braakenburg and his staff of 17 will don Roaring Twenties costumes during the week while a Model T Ford Roadster will be on display at the branch entrance, adding to the celebration's theme.

To kick off festivities, Roaring Twenties music will be played in the branch by "The Swinging Banjos," an instrumental trio from 10 a.m. to noon Monday.

Security Pacific Bank's Fourth & Cherry Branch was founded Nov. 22, 1920, as the Fourth Street Branch of Long Beach Savings Bank & Trust Company.

Its original two-story brick building on the northeast corner opened for business March 26, 1921.

Later that year the branch and its parent organization merged into what is now Security Pacific's branch banking system, second largest in the nation.

The present building, at 2017 E. Fourth St., one lot east of its original site, was constructed following the earthquake of 1933.

Braakenburg, manager of this branch for four years, is a 51-year resident of Long Beach. He also has worked nearly his entire banking career in Long Beach.

Joining Security Pacific as a bookkeeper at its Hill & Atlantic Branch in 1937, shortly after his graduation from Wilson High School, he returned as a teller at its Bixby Knolls Branch following Army Service during World War II.

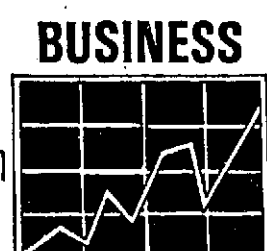

He served as assistant manager of Bixby Knolls and Artesia branches prior to his current position.

ACTIVE IN THE COMMUNITY, Braakenburg belongs to Long Beach Elks Lodge 888 and Belmont Shore Lions Club. He also is a member of the Harbor Chapter, American Institute of Banking, from which he holds two certificates in commercial banking.

Security Pacific National Bank, founded in 1871, maintains 408 banking locations in California, as the second largest branch-banking system in the United States.

In addition, Security Pacific has a full service London Branch as well as regional representative offices in Tokyo and Hong Kong, and soon will open additional offices in Paris, Brussels and Mexico City.

Security Pacific's total resources exceed $7.4 billion.

E. L. McDaniels Given High Post at Macmillan

EUGENE MCDANIELS . . . Choice

(NOTE: Cliff Read, Long Beach resident and dean of the area's public relations men, is a long-time employee of Macmillan Ring-Free Oil Co., Inc. He has watched — and accurately reported — the Signal Hill firm's rapid growth through the years.)

By CLIFF READ

Eugene L. McDaniels, 44, of Los Alamitos, has been named a vice president and elected to the board of directors of Macmillan Ring-Free Oil Co., Inc., Signal Hill.

Announcement came this week from John M. Shaheen, president, in New York.

McDaniels, based in Los Angeles, will be in charge of all Far West and Pacific area operations.

McDaniels, formerly manager of refinery sales for Southern California Refining Co. Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Macmillan, is a veteran of more than 20 years in the petroleum industry.

Prior to joining Macmillan, he was special representative for purchasing, selling and exchanging foreign crude oil internationally for Chevron Oil Trading Co. He was administrative assistant to the president for Standard of California's crude sales division.

Macmillan recently revealed plans for a proposed $32 million refinery, to be erected on Macmillan property in Carson. Crude, stored at the Carson facility, presently is piped to Signal Hill for refining, and the finished product is piped back to Carson for later distribution.

Asked what might happen to the 47-year-old Signal Hill refinery if the proposed unit is built, McDaniels said:

"Signal Hill is doing very well and should continue. Costly installations have been made since emphasis was removed from asphalt to recent-year production of jet fuels (used by power companies)."

Optimism is the outlook for aggressive, prepared independents, said the 43-year-old executive.

McDaniels, a husky, blue-eyed six-footer with wavy, iron-gray hair, joined Macmillan March 1.

Raised in Taft, where he was born, McDaniels graduated from high school into a two-year stint with the U.S. Navy.

A year with Standard Oil Co. of California followed; then he enrolled at Claremont Men's College and studied some law, but graduated with a B.A. in Business Administration.

Then it was back to Standard of California and later to two of its subsidiary companies, California Crude Sales Co., followed by Chevron Oil Trading Co.

If the Macmillan prospectus and that of Southern California Refining Co. (of which he is vice president) enthrall McDaniels today, he is also high on two other subjects.

One is the McDaniels family (wife Sue, sons Scott, 17, and Gary, 13). The other is a hobby which "the whole family is crazy about: bowling."

Sales at Oak Shores Pass $1 Million Mark

Sales at Oak Shores, General Resource Development's multi-million-dollar private family recreation development at Lake Nacimiento near Paso Robles, has jumped to $1,675,000, Harry L. Browne, GRD president, announced this week.

Browne said 175 lots have been sold in the project, located 25 miles west of Paso Robles in San Luis Obispo County, and workers are creating new tracts.

Oak Shores is the only private recreation development on Lake Nacimiento, seven times larger than Lake Arrowhead. "The lake is 17 miles long, with 165 miles of shoreline and with a surface area of 5,380 acres. It is also becoming known as a fisherman's lake, home of the white bass, a cousin to the striped bass, white and blue channel catfish, bluegill perch and crappie," said Browne.

LAKE Nacimiento is a paradise for waterskiers, providing miles of open water for long power runs at full speed.

A 500-foot test strip is being laid out for all-weather roads, which will be built on the project, to make sure they meet San Luis Obispo County standards.

"No hunting of any kind will be allowed on the project," said Browne. "The 3,000 acres of the development will remain a game refuge."

"Hunting, of course, is allowed outside the project in season and in areas designated by the California Department of Fish and Game."

Browne said Oak Shores

Bill Norton Named to Credit Post

Bill Norton, 48, classified advertising sales manager for the Independent Press-Telegram for four years, has been appointed the newspaper's credit manager.

The appointment is effective Monday.

Norton succeeds Walter H. Polak, who will assume new responsibilities, as yet unspecified.

Norton joined the Independent circulation department in 1945, then later worked as a salesman in the classified and display advertising departments.

During 14 years in circulation work, Norton served as sales promotion manager and area manager.

He lives in Long Beach.

THOSE WHO CAN

Engineers Enter 'Lowlier Fields'

NORCO, Calif. —

There's a rumor among engineers here that a member of their ranks, with a college degree, now has a newspaper route.

Whether that's true or not, one engineer is working as a telephone lineman, a physicist who specialized in infrared technology is making suitcases and a mathematician is selling real estate.

Their cases are a microcosm of one area of American unemployment: Those out of jobs because of defense cutbacks. Norco's plight is the upcoming shutdown of the Naval Weapons Center.

Perhaps luckier than most, the center's 917 full-time affected employees had considerable warning — first a rumor and then, in April 1969, the official announcement. The closure is to be completed by next June 30.

THE MAJORITY of employees were assured jobs at a Navy facility at China Lake. But this still proved traumatic to some. China Lake is in Kern County, more than 100 miles north, and moving means new

Mortgage Credit Loosens; Overbuilding Could Result

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

The California homebuilding industry is painting itself into a corner of overbuilding for a nonexistent market, according to a Bank of America study revealed by Regional Vice President H. H. Jackson.

"The construction industry in California has not completely accepted the full implications of recent changes in the economy," cautioned the report entitled "Focus on California Construction in 1971."

Jackson said, according to the study, mortgage credit will be more readily available in California over the next year than at any time since 1965.

"If builders follow their usual pattern of pacing production to the limit of available financing, this could lead to temporary overbuilding in key sectors of the market, particularly because many potential buyers will be unable to afford the higher priced single-family units now being built," he added.

Elaborating upon the report, Jackson, head of Bank of America's Orange and Southeastern Los Angeles County Region, noted that the sharp cutbacks in the aerospace industry have slowed the growth in employment opportunities in Orange County. However, the employment gain of almost 4 per cent estimated for 1970 is more than double the state average, he pointed out.

New housing units built in Orange County in 1970, Jackson said, are expected to total about 22,000. This is down from the approximately 32,000 units built in 1969. About two-thirds of the new units are in multi-unit structures. Speculative building activity is likely to push the total back to 30,000 units by 1971.

PR Changing

By 1980 — or sooner — the specialized financial public relations agency as it is known today will be virtually a thing of the past, according to one industry spokesman.

The weakness of the financial public relations agency — as the down economy has dramatically indicated — is that its function is too specialized at a time when corporate clients need a far broader range of services, N. Richard Lewis, president of Lewis & Associates, Los Angeles and San Francisco-based public relations firm, told a seminar at UCLA last week.

"This is not to say that financial public relations isn't here to stay, but I think we can pretty well expect the vast majority of analysts and accountants who moved to financial PR firms in the past five years to return to Wall Street and Spring Street," Lewis said.

"Let's face it: accountants and analysts are not trained to be communicators, opinion molders, social problem solvers or promotion people, said Lewis. "Their basic frame of reference is statistics and bottom line figures."

"We can only conclude that a general public relations firm that has experienced personnel in both areas — financial and marketing — is going to do a better job of conveying a more meaningful profile of the client company to the financial community."

Purse Loosened?

The California consumer may be on the verge of loosening the purse strings a little, but he's still not ready to go on a spending binge, Wells Fargo Bank said last week.

The Bank's monthly Business Review said while any improvement in consumer spending is likely to be moderate, it could help push Christmas sales above last year's level and bring some cheer to an otherwise dreary business year.

"Indications are that this improvement in consumer spending may well continue through 1971," Harold Buma, vice president and manager, Economics Department, said.

Although business activity is expected to remain sluggish for the rest of the year, there are reasons to believe that Christmas sales may do slightly better than the current economic picture suggests.

"For one thing, Christmas sales tend to have their strongest impact on general merchandise stores and these have done fairly well so far this year," Buma said. "Many of these stores are conducting vigorous sales campaigns and are staying open longer hours, including Sundays."

Coastal Erosion

Details of a major breakthrough in the mounting problem of combating increasing coastal erosion throughout the world — soon to be employed on U. S. shorelines — were revealed this week in New York by The Gray Manufacturing Company.

Executives and engineers of Gray Tech Industries, Inc., a subsidiary, described their innovative "CONQUIK" system, a unique new method of combating the growing problems of the world's shrinking land mass and the more immediate problems of storm damage.

According to Charles W. Stickler, president of Gray Tech, the system "offers possible control for coastal erosion problems, may actually restore and rebuild an eroded shoreline, costs less and is more effective than other methods."

The system recently underwent pressure and stability testing by the University of Florida's Department of Coastal and Oceanographic Engineering at their Florida Engineering and Industrial Experiment Station.

These tests, Stickler said, give strong indication that the system will effectively control shoreline erosion, and in most cases actually build up and broaden eroded beaches.

CONQUIK structures are made of permeable precast concrete, which is cast on or near the site of intended use. They are semicylindrical in shape with a flat bottom.

This flat base has "drag-footers" sink into the beach bottom to provide stability under storm conditions.

The structures, each having a radius of about five feet and a length of 10 feet, are then placed end to end. The system is placed parallel to the beach, at a distance prescribed by the type of shoreline to be protected.

If a high shoreline such as a cliff or bank was in the process of erosion, then the structure would be placed in close proximity to the shore.

If a gently sloping beach were involved, it would probably be placed off shore in 10 to 12 feet of water.

Wall Street Briefs

PALO ALTO (UPI) — A radar system so small it sells for less than $100 was announced by Hewlett-Packard Co. The company expects it to be installed in cars and trucks to avert collisions in bad weather, in very small boats and small aircraft and to serve as the heart of burglar alarm and traffic control systems. It works on the doppler effect principle to detect and measure speed. The radar module is no larger than a match box and has a range of 2,000 feet but can measure speeds of up to 1,000 miles an hour.

schools, new friends, new homes. So the job-hunting ranks also include those refusing to move.

But nobody's hiring much.

"The real tragedy of the thing is that when the consolidation took place, employment opportunities were worse than they have been in years," says Rod Kraatz, personnel director at the naval center.

"People in the research department were hurt the worst—and some of these men have the best educations," he said. "But nobody's hiring in this field."

"AS A RESULT" many of the top chemists and scientists with Ph.D.'s are out of luck," Kraatz relates. "I've tried to find jobs for almost all of them but the government, universities and private industry aren't hiring anyone for basic research."

Douglas Peake, an engineer specializing in guided missiles, says he and four others have formed their own manufacturing company. Their plant is a converted garage. But he says others are worse off.

"A friend of mine, a physicist, who specialized in infra red technology and that sort of thing, is now making luggage," Peake said. "Imagine, a man with a brilliant mind like he has is now making suitcases."

RELOCATION — another situation faced by mobile Americans — bothered many, Peake said.

"Some couldn't sell homes here. Others couldn't find homes in the new location. Only the younger men, those without homes or kids in school, were able to relocate with no problems."

"When you've been in a job and made close to $20,000 a year, it's not easy to quit and find a job that will pay a similar salary," says Roger Chaussee, a mathematician who quit rather than move.

Chaussee, who went into real estate, says the Norco area "is a hard place to find yourself unemployed — especially in the defense field. Where can you go?"

Fred Sikita is one who's making the move to China Lake — which some disgruntled movers lament doesn't even have a lake — and his wife and 15-year-old daughter will accompany him.

"At first I thought about quitting and getting another job," Sikita said. "But I would have had to take a big cut in pay and we have another daughter who has just entered college. Also, I have only six more years until retirement. It just wasn't logical to quit."

Recreational Vehicle Opens Here Tuesday

Gone are the days when the "little woman" sent her husband off to hunt or fish "with the boys" because outdoor living was just too rough for her delicate ways.

Now a housewife goes right along with her outdoorsman husband, because "roughing it" in today's modern recreational vehicles can be as comfortable and convenient as staying home by the family hearthside — and a lot more fun.

Just how comfortable and convenient will be demonstrated at the Western National Recreational Vehicle Show, opening Tuesday at the Long Beach Arena for a six-day run.

The show, sponsored by the Recreational Vehicle Institute, brings together a wide variety of the new 1971 models of recreational vehicles by major manufacturers throughout the United States.

Show hours are 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday, and noon to 8 p.m. on Sunday.

Admission is $1.25 for adults; $2.25 for couples, and 50 cents for children. As a special incentive to families, $3 will admit a family of any size.

This is the first year the show has been held in Long Beach.

Business Week index

Copyright 1970 by McGraw-Hill, Inc.

The index continues in its downhill slide, despite an uptick in steel. Steel output rose 3.1% in the week, reversing its sharp decline of the previous week. Auto production softened, indicating that very little of GM's lost output has gone to other domestic producers. Crude oil runs increased by a small amount, but less than usual at this season.

BUSINESS, INDUSTRY WEEK

Steel Output Up; So Is Crude

Steel output rose 3.1 per cent in the current week. Steelmakers anticipate future orders, following shipment of stockpiled G.M. material.

Auto production dropped 3.9 per cent, and hit a level 47.5 per cent below a year ago.

The power components offset each other in the current week. Crude oil refinery runs rose 0.1 per cent, electric power output fell 1.0 per cent.

Miscellaneous carloadings slipped 3.4 per cent, reflecting losses in pulp and paper, and metals transport. All other carloadings dropped 5.2 per cent. Inter-city truck tonnage registered an 0.4 per cent gain.

PRESSURES ARE BUILDING for new price increases on manufactured goods in the near future, Industry Week said this week.

A sampling of management thinking indicates most manufacturing industries see the need for increases. They are faced, the business magazine said, with the problem: Low profitability as a result of rising labor, transportation, and other production costs.

Even in electronics, where price cuts are coming on parts, the prices of color television sets continue upward. And while weak demand depresses some nonferrous metals, steel prices are sure to rise. A Canadian steel company initiated price increases last week in the face of steeply higher costs.

The purchasing director of a highly diversified manufacturing company sums up the price outlook for 1971 this way: Prices on carbon, stainless, and alloy steels will rise 4 to 5 per cent, diesel engines will go up 7 per cent, and tires will increase about 3 per cent.

On the downside, he says, will be copper and related products; aluminum, which is facing overcapacity; and electronic components, which could decline as much as 8 per cent in price.

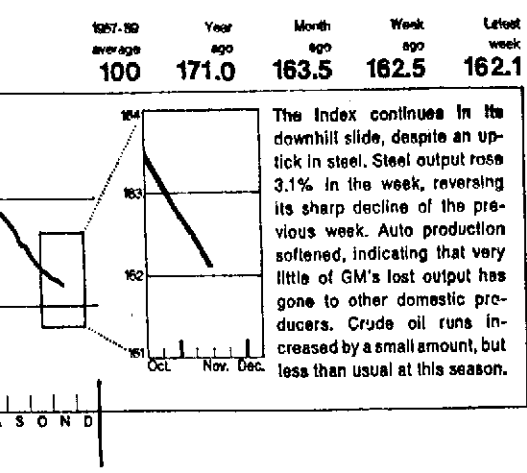

Steel companies, which have increased finished product prices an average of 6 per cent in the last year, are eyeing next summer's labor negotiations in their industry and expecting a costly settlement. As a result, steel executives say, prices can only move to higher levels if profits are to return to satisfactory levels.

Price increases are expected also in the agricultural implement field, where producers now must give the United Auto Workers contracts that match the General Motors Corp. pattern. But the companies currently are hurt by slow business, and one of them is making concessions to dealers to boost business, Industry Week reported.

male spends one hour out of every work day "ogling minis."

The distractions, he continued, come in three classes: glance, doubletake and continuous observation — and, what's more, he found such distractions average 74 a day.

Let's go on with Nolan: "Female office employees are just as guilty. Evidently they're checking the competition."

BUSINESS, INDUSTRY WEEK

Steel Output Up; So Is Crude

IN CONSUMER ELECTRONICS, some companies may drop black-and-white television operations because they can't compete with imported sets from Japan.

The profit squeeze isn't critical in home appliances, but there have been some small price hikes on new models.

Hamburger King Grosses $1 Million in Tiny Hut

LOS ANGELES — On a corner just west of the downtown area reposes an ordinary looking 8-by-15-foot wood and cinder block hamburger stand.

But, here in Southern California where the burger is deemed an art form, Tom Koufax, age 50, has created what some connoisseurs consider a masterpiece.

Result: Koufax says he now grosses $1 million a year in the tiny hut.

Koufax's seven-ounce sandwiches, given a distinctive flavor by a secret blend of chili, draws crowds of World Series proportions. The stand, open 24 hours, slows down only between 5 and 6 a.m.

Tommy's as it is called, employs 33 men who have benefits including profit sharing, pensions, paid vacations and a Christmas bonus. They earn it. Each day they smear 150 gallons of chili sauce and empty a 55-gallon pickle barrel. Each week they slice 6,800 pounds of tomatoes and 40 sacks of onions and fry 2½ tons of beef.

Koufax — who previously had hawked newspapers, pumped gas and welded ships — acquired the spot 20 years ago for $800 with a partner he later bought out. His motivations: "I like hamburgers."

The stand itself has changed little over the years except that Koufax has bought surrounding property for parking and kitchen-storage facilities.

His secret? "I give people what I like myself. We Greeks like to spice things up."

Tommy's burgers pack a wallop. The kicker is the chili sauce — ingredients secret. Ordered with everything — sauce, onions, tomato, pickle, mustard — the sandwiches are an oozing handful, so juicy the eater must bend forward and attack from the top or be dribbled upon.

A novice, used to the average "ketchup and a little onion" type burger, is apt to emerge gasping from his first bite. But after the tongue adapts and the eyes cease watering, the effect is provocative. The taste lingers long. The price is 45 cents.

"I make it back in volume, Koufax says of his low price.

Why doesn't he expand? "It wouldn't be the same," he maintains. "People just seem to like to come to the stand the way it is. Why ruin a good thing?"

Postmen Play Helper to Santa, Deliver Checks

Postmen play Santa's helpers this month to 115,803 California residents, as they deliver an estimated $24.8 million in checks to Security Pacific National Bank Christmas Club members.

These Christmas Club payments, averaging $213.98 per check, increased slightly over last year's tallies of 115,526 customers receiving average checks for $213.08, reported Frederick G. Larkin, Jr., chairman of the bank's board.

Security Pacific National Bank instituted its Christmas Club savings program in 1945. This year-long service commences in December and becomes payable the following November. Funds draw interest at regular savings account rates. Savers deposit on a regular, predetermined schedule.

GRANT EXEC WARNS:

Housing Unlike Autos in Design, Marketing

Houses cannot be designed and sold on a national scale like automobiles, the marketing director of a major homebuilder has warned.

"Each area of the United States is a private world of its own in the housing industry," said Warren Toman, vice president-marketing for Grant Corporation, at a recent seminar sponsored by the Sales and Marketing Council of the Building Industry Association in Anaheim.

"We've heard a lot of talk about the development of national housing companies — real giants of the industry who will build in many sections of the United States," said Toman. "But if these giants emerge, they will have to approach each area separately."

"We operate in those states right now, and it is a different ball game in each place," he said in referring to Grant Corporation's communities in California, Hawaii and Nevada.

"What might be the best design, merchandising and marketing program in California conceivably could break us in the other states," he noted.

WHAT IS the answer to the marketing problems involved in a multi-state operation?

Research, says Toman. "There's no substitute for thoroughly researching your market and your product before you start any project, be it large or small."

"And, you must keep researching your market and your product once you are under way to make sure you remain current with the demand in the area," he stated.

Toman cited a study on the market in Hawaii made by the Grant Corporation before it entered that market two years ago.

"We found that everything is higher in Hawaii — labor, materials and land."

"And, our research showed that because of the Oriental influence, it is common for two generations of a family to live together. This factor and the propensity for working wives puts our homes in the middle income bracket, although they would be considered in the higher price bracket here in California," he said.

UW's New Center in L.A. Open

Western Union's new Technical Training Center has opened with dedication ceremonies held in the new facility at 737 S. Flower St., Los Angeles.

This is the third of three similar centers recently placed in service to meet increased TWX, teleprinter exchange service, from the Bell system.

According to R. H. McConnell, vice president — national systems operation, "the dedication ceremonies are the culmination of a year and a half of careful planning."

"Western Union's training specialists and course developers have put together a technical education program designed to provide new and existing technicians with the skills, knowledge and attitudes necessary to best serve our customers."

MOLE'S 'EYE VIEW'

Passersby pay no second glance to street crews these days—but perhaps that's because of common perspective. Just what is the view from underneath an open manhole? San Bernardino Associated Press photographer wanted to know, climbed down for this view of Southern California Edison Company cable-splicer lowering hammer to assistant working on switch vault below street level.

General Telephone Helps 'Fledgling Phone Company'

General Telephone Company is lending its support to a youthful, new "telephone company" which made its debut in the Long Beach area by installing a communications system for some 800 Sea Scouts from throughout California gathered at Long Beach Naval Station this weekend.

Long Beach Explorer Scout Troop 277, a special interest group in electronics and communications jointly sponsored by General Telephone and Southern California Edison Company, is providing the visiting Sea Scouts with a main outside telephone line, 12 telephones, a public address system and a two-way radio.

"It's a rather elaborate system," reported Cliff Bos of Cypress, a General Telephone equipment engineer and one of the troop's advisors, "but the guys will handle all the work themselves — from installation of the equipment in manning the switchboard the project will be totally their effort."

BOS explained that troop members got the equipment for the communications system by rehabilitating an obsolete switchboard and some telephones General Telephone donated to them.

They were taught the principles of telephone installation and repair by General Telephone instructors in Long Beach.

Once the Sea Scout's communications system was set up, Troop 277 volunteers manned the switchboard 24 hours a day throughout the meeting.

Pointing out this is strictly a youth-oriented project, Bos emphasized,

"We're advisors, and we stick to the meaning of the word. We will standby to assist if the troops ask for help; but otherwise, they will complete this job by themselves... they're completely capable of handling the work."

Bos noted that the young men have gathered a good bit of knowledge about electronics and communications from field trips to various companies in the area... and at least one of Troop 277's twice weekly meetings is spent in practical work on some type with electronic or communications gear.

For the nine months, the department store chain's earnings declined 5.8 per cent to $63,647,080 or $1.23 per share. During the same 1969 period, Penney's had net income of $67,542,456 or $1.31 per share. Fully diluted earnings for the nine months of 1970 were $1.20 per share, down from last year's $1.28.

Revenues for the company totaled $96,218,000 for fiscal 1970 compared to $60,604,000 for 1969.

The company said previously announced sales of investments and discontinuance of certain operations produced an extraordinary loss of $598,000, equal to 9 cents per share.

Red Carpet Treatment at B of A

Customers at Bank of America's Long Beach Main Office are now receiving the red carpet treatment.

The bank has initiated a "red carpet fast teller service" designed to reduce waiting in line to an absolute minimum and to further personalize service.

(Other branches began the service several months ago.)

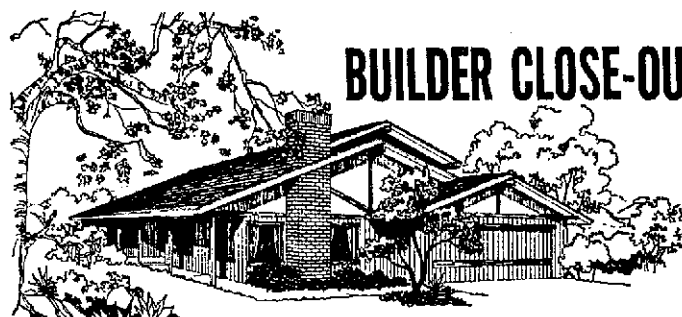

Manager Bob Matheny said the fast teller service is being installed in selected Bank of America branches throughout California.

"WHEN you come into the bank, you fill out your checking or savings slip, then move into a single line. When you reach the head of the line, you then go to the first available teller," Matheny said.

"Of course, if you wish, you can step aside for a moment and wait for your favorite teller."

Noting the new system eliminates the frustration of chancing into a slow-moving line, Matheny said: "The fast teller service not only provides maximum convenience, it ensures privacy."

LAW IN THE NEWS

Old Question of Engagement Ring

When wedding bells don't ring, must the girl give back her engagement ring?

To answer that question you should know who refused to marry and why. If the woman wrongfully refused, the man can sue for the ring. But if he refused, she can keep it.

Sometimes the law expects "courtship gifts" to be returned if made "in contemplation of the marriage." Few are. But the gifts may be returned when a man or woman makes a gift on the promise of marriage that falls through.

The law says that "the donor may recover such gift or such part of its value, as may, under all the circumstances, found to be just." When both parties make such gifts, the court can order a division of the gifts.

IN A recent case Fifi had lived with Eddie for four years after she separated from her husband.

Relying on her promise to marry him when her divorce became final, Eddie bought a lot of realty and personal property out of his earnings and put it in both names, much of it as "husband and wife."

They had also filed joint income tax returns and as man and wife, had made claims for insurance.

Fifi kept putting off her final divorce decree. When she finally did get it, she left Eddie and married someone else. Fifi sued Eddie for her share of the property.

Eddie cross-complained and asked for all of it back. The court gave it all to him since he had made the gifts "in contemplation of marriage."

By JACK O. BALDWIN

A call for bids to construct three new berths in the Port of Long Beach estimated to cost approximately $4 million was issued this week by Bob Hoffmaster, chief harbor engineer.

The new container berths will provide an additional one-half mile of deep water dockage.

Berth 234 will add 1,200 feet of wharfage on the Western side of a 40-acre fill now being created directly seaward from the present Sea-Land Service container terminal. When completed, the combined 70-acre facility will be used by Kerr Steamship Company and its container and auto tenants.

Berths 243 and 244 will consist of 1,350 feet of waterfront on 40 acres of existing land fill between Sealand and Transocean Gateway container terminals.

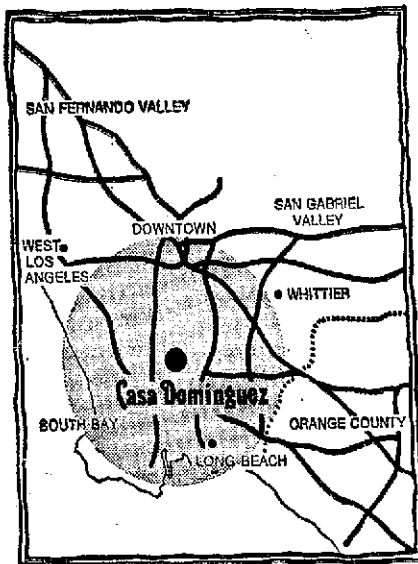

The facility will be the fourth container terminal in the Pier J container complex.

The Harbor Department is currently constructing an 18-acre rail and truck terminal for Sea-Land on Pier J. The fill work is nearing completion and when the terminal is finished in 1972 it will be the largest on the West Coast.

TWIN OAKS MODEL... Is Popular At Parkwood

Parkwood Offers Adults Different Style of Life

Many couples with grown children find themselves in a peculiar situation when the children leave home and they're suddenly roaming around a large home with too many bedrooms along with the responsibility of caring for a large yard and perhaps a pool, too.

When the children leave home, adult interests change.

They no longer want to spend the time and expense involved in maintaining a large yard and home.

Yet, they don't really want to change the lifestyle they're accustomed to by moving into an apartment because they still want the comforts and privacy a home offers and the value of home ownership itself.

PARKEWOOD has the answer.

This is a community oriented towards just these people — with homes built for minimum maintenance.

Homes are clustered around very private cul-de-sacs and each home has a private enclosed patio which runs the length of the homes. The patio offers an outdoor entertainment area and a place to putter in the garden, if you like, or just a relaxing time in the sunshine.

Murphy Lincoln-Mercury, 1946 Lakewood Blvd., Long Beach, has been named one of the top 100 Lincoln Continental dealerships in the nation.

John Gustafson, vice president and general manager of the dealership will attend a meeting of the exclusive "100 Club" in Las Vegas this weekend and will accept the 1979 model year award.

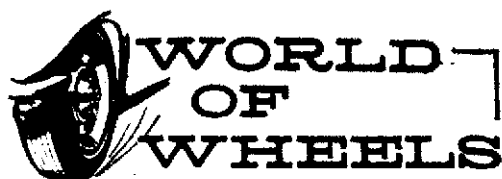

"Marketing luxury cars like Lincoln Continentals is a highly specialized business that requires modern facilities, excellent service and top-flight sales personnel in order to be successful," said B.E. (Ben) Bidwell, Ford vice president and Lincoln-Mercury Division general manager.

"Members of the 100 Club have proven themselves to be leaders in all three areas. They deliver one-third of all Lincoln Continentals and Continental Mark IIs in this country, amounting to nearly $100,000,000 in retail sales," he said.

Each home offers a two-car garage with automatic garage doors.

Parkwood homes are priced from $28,490.

Some notes about Home Buying:

he who hesitates . . .

From mid-1968 to July, 1969, the price of an average home rose from $34,250 to $36,990—a rise of almost $3,000. Many have taken this as a sign not to buy now. But, since home costs are predicted to continue rising*, that new home won't get any cheaper by waiting. And a house bought now will increase in proportion to the cost of reproducing that dwelling at some future date. So, unlike some depressed or non-viable areas of the United States, the home-owner or buyer in Southern California knows that his property investment will be reasonably well-protected because of the growth and viability of this area.

So, waiting for that home you want now is not really the best move economically. Shop around and see ... no better place to start than these pages.
